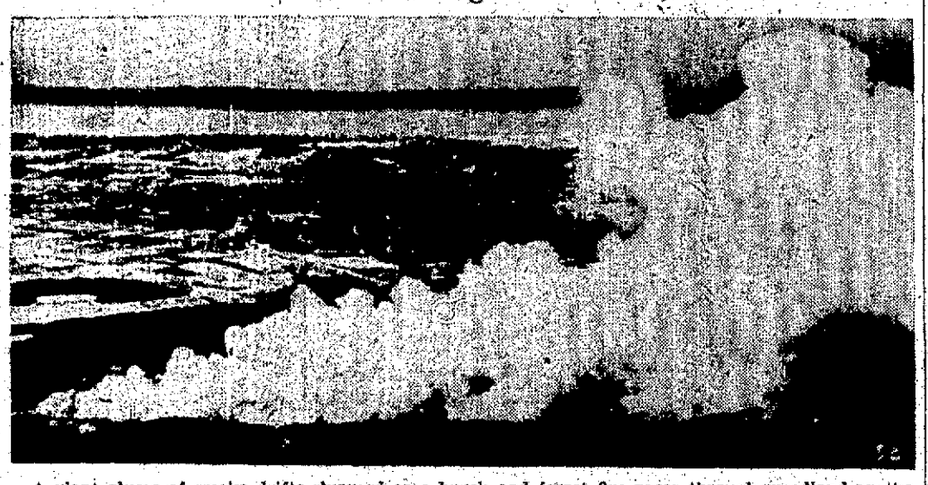
Forest Fire Rages on Island



A giant plume of smoke drifts skyward as a brush and forest fire races through woodland on the resort island of Nantucket, Mass. It threatened the airport and burned over several square miles before it was brought under control. Town of Nantucket is in background.

Senate Battles on Fund For Foreign Aid Program

Mrs. Beck Blames Mother and Males

'Lonesome Heart' Suspect Tells of Abuses Since She Was Child

New York, July 26 (AP)—Plump Martha Beck, fighting conviction as "lonely hearts" slayer, is blaming her plight largely on a nagging mother and too many deceiving males.

The 29-year-old woman returns to the witness stand today to tell more of a life story that the defense hopes will bolster its claim of insanity.

Before a packed court room she told many sordid details yesterday.

She said that when she was 13 she was the victim of two incestuous attacks by her brother, and declared the affair has "been preying on my mind ever since."

Her mother kept her in virtual seclusion after that, Mrs. Beck testified, and she told her mother "you're driving me crazy."

The mother's reply, according to Mrs. Beck, was "what do you mean driving you crazy?—you've been crazy all your life."

And that wasn't the only time in her life that her mother accused her of being crazy, Mrs. Beck said.

All her life, th edefendant testified, she has been pursued by hard luck, a domineering mother and scheeming men.

When she was ten, she said, a roomer in a relative's home attempted to molest her. And when she was eleven or twelve, a relative's husband made advances and offered her money—but she resisted, she said.

The mother, Mrs. Julia Seabrook, of Pensacola, Fla., stayed away from court yesterday at Mrs. Beck's request.

Mrs. Seabrook previously had attended daily since Mrs. Beck and her lover, Raymond Fernandez, 34, went on trial for first degree murder in the bludgeoning-strangulation slaying of Mrs. Janet Fay, 66-year-old Albany, N. Y., widow.

The prosecution charges the slaying of Mrs. Fay in Valley Stream, N. Y., last Jan. 4 was the outgrowth of a scheme to swindle lonely women.

Mrs. Beck, mother of four children, testified yesterday she did not know whether she killed Mrs. Fay. Fernandez has testified she did and he didn't but she still declares her love for him.

Mrs. Beck, tracing her background, told of conflict between her mother and father in her early childhood, and said: "My mother never looked upon my father's people as relatives."

She said that when she was six or seven years old her mother threatened to "whip me within an inch of my life if I ever had anything to do with any member of my father's family."

After years of unhappy life, Mrs. Beck said, she took to liquor to relax and forget the past, but it did not help.

She said she had a romance with a sailor who wanted to marry her, but he broke it off, saying "your mother led me to believe that you are mentally unbalanced."

Following the lines of Fernandez' testimony, Mrs. Beck told of abnormal sex practices.

Mrs. Beck said she was deceived even by Alfred Willard Beck, the man who was "kind and considerate" and married her in 1944, three months after she gave birth to a daughter by another man.

On their wedding night, she testified, a woman brought four children to her door and announced: "You have taken my husband—you can have my children."

"I was dumbfounded," she said. "When Mr. Beck stepped into view, the kids ran all around, yelling 'daddy, daddy.'"

Other experiences with men were heart-breaking, she said.

Ellender Says Europe Feels American Help Is Ruled by British

Washington, July 26 (AP)—A short-tempered, irritable Senate waded deeper today into a bitter dispute over the $5,723,000,000 foreign aid program.

The strain of the long session was beginning to show in the debate which centered on money for the second year of the European Recovery Program.

Senators snapped at each other angrily late yesterday over an issue that few had thought would cause a ripple. The major issues were yet to come.

The Senate voted $344,000 to keep a congressional "watchdog committee checking" on recovery spending. But not before Majority Leader Lucas of Illinois stirred up a wordy scrap by trying—and failing—to have the funds cut to $200,000.

On top of this Senator Ellender (D.-La.) had his colleagues buzzing over his report that the Marshall Plan is threatened with failure because of a reported feeling that American policy in Europe is dominated by Great Britain.

Ellender is just back from a trip to Italy, where he attended a world health congress.

He told friends his trip convinced him Europe can't recover unless: (1) Germany is pulled back to recovery; (2) Europe produces goods at prices the people can afford to pay; (3) and currencies are made convertible from one European country to another.

"The rest of Europe is willing to work out stabilized, convertible currencies," Ellender told a reporter, "but Britain won't go along."

Senate leaders had stubborn opposition in their fight to eliminate amendments tagged onto the foreign aid bill by the Senate Appropriation Committee.

Lucas Confident

Senator Lucas said he was confident they would be knocked out. But Chairman McKellar (D.-Tenn.) of the appropriations committee was just as positive the amendments will remain.

They would:

(1) Require the Economic Cooperation Administration and the army to use up to about $2,000,000,000 in aid funds to purchase surplus farm commodities. The

Baruch Says Aid Plan Effectiveness Good, Not Enough

Britain, He Says, Spends Too Little Time in Production; Says Arms Needed

New York, July 26 (AP)—Bernard Baruch said today on arriving from Europe that the Marshall Plan has been effective "but not as effective as it should have been."

The white-haired financier also said he believed Britain was spending too much time on nationalization and "not devoting sufficient energy to developing their country and its production."

Interviewed aboard the liner Queen Mary as it steamed to its pier, Baruch was asked, "Do you think the European countries would help themselves more if we help them less?"

"There's a heap of sense in that," he answered.

"I think the Marshall Plan has done a lot of good," he said, "I think it's been effective, but not as effective as it should have been."

Asked his opinion of U. S. business conditions, the financier said "I do not agree with those people who claim we have a slump here in America and that we are looking more toward the left than to the right. No nation ever adopted communism voluntarily.

"If we happen to lose a little money, and we've suffered this before, we'll tighten our belts and go ahead as we have done."

He commented that this country is spending billions "girding itself for defense." In reply to a question as to whether this is necessary, he said:

"Unfortunately, yes."

Baruch said he had read of the controversy between Francis Cardinal Spellman and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt over federal aid to education.

He termed it "very unfortunate," describing the cardinal as "a fine and religious man" and Mrs. Roosevelt as "free from any intolerance—race, color or creed."

Baruch spent a month abroad on a vacation, mostly in England. He visited Winston Churchill, who was the financier's guest here earlier this week. Baruch said Churchill was in excellent health.

Asked about reports he has a foot ailment, he quipped smilingly:

"A person who puts his foot in it as often as I do is bound to get hurt."

He said, however, that he had not cut his trip short because of any foot trouble but because "I wanted to come home."

Purpose Is To Assist Americans

Five Nations Form Western Union, Plan Coordination of Their Own Power

Reds: 4 Millions

Soviet Ground Forces Comprise 2,500,000 Men

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, July 26 (AP)—President Truman's arms-for-Europe program was described officially today as designed to bring up to combat strength a total of about 1,500,000 fighting men in five countries.

The strategic purpose behind this objective is to prepare the countries of western Europe to defend themselves against any attack by Russia until American forces could be thrown into the struggle.

The five key countries in the western Europe rearmament plan are Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg. Together they form the Western European Union and have already planned the coordination of their own military power independently of any U. S. assistance.

In addition to these five the arms program is supposed also to strengthen the combat effectiveness of the relatively small forces of Norway, Denmark and Italy.

Figures available here showed the nature of the problem that military leaders of the United States and western Europe have encountered in trying to determine what the objective of a rearmament effort should be.

Against the 1,500,000 available troops of the western union powers the Soviet Union is reported now to have a total military strength of more than 4,000,000 men, including 2,500,000 in the ground forces.

The Red army ground forces in Germany are reported to total about 350,000 men organized in 20 to 25 divisions. Another 10 to 15 divisions are said to be distributed elsewhere in occupied or satellite nations of eastern Europe.

Some reports have reached Washington in recent months that the Russians have been increasing the strength of their divisions in eastern Germany; present estimates are based on estimate of increases.

On the American side of the picture, the United States now has under arms a total of 1,600,000 men divided among the army, air force, navy and marines.

Administration officials were requested to explain how the proposed arms program would work out in types of weapons to be supplied other countries and to tell how much of what each country would get. They declined to dis-

Man Is Victim Of Drowning At Mt. Tremper

William Nechwedowitch, 21, a truck driver employed on the reconstruction of Route 28 near Bolceville, drowned while swimming in the Esopus creek at Mount Tremper last night.

Swimming with several others at the rock cut, Nechwedowitch apparently became exhausted, according to information gathered by state police. Another man attempted to pull him out onto the rocks on the railroad side of the creek but the victim slipped back into the water, which according to one estimate was about 15 feet deep at that point.

Others dove after him, and one person, whose identity was not learned, reportedly reached him but the struggles of the drowning man prevented the rescue.

A nearby resident, Frank W. Carle, notified State Trooper Ray Durin of Phoenicia, who with the assistance of Sgt. Arthur Reilly of the state police, Deputy Sheriff Joseph Haver and neighbors succeeded in locating the body about midnight, state police said.

Nechwedowitch, whose home is in Kingsley, Pa., for 10 weeks had been renting a house in Bolceville. He was employed by the Corbisello Construction Company on the reconstruction of Route 28 between West Hurley and Bolceville.

About 8:30 p. m. Monday he left with a party of others to swim at Mount Tremper. With him in the party were included his brother, Stanley, also employed on the highway project, and a young Kingston boy, Robert Mericle of 36 Foxhall avenue, who was vacationing in the area, according to Bolceville residents.

The body was taken to the Eugene B. Gormley Funeral Home in Phoenicia, where it was being held for shipment to Kingsley, Pa., for funeral services and burial.

State police at Lake Katrine reported that Coroner Ernest A. Kelly issued a verdict of accidental drowning.

Radiation Over-Evaluated, A.E.C. Physician Says

Chicago, July 26 (AP) — An Atomic Energy Commission doctor said today that atom bomb radiation is "perhaps the most over-evaluated" hazard of war.

This opinion was expressed by Col. James P. Cooney, a member of the A.E.C.'s medical advisory staff. Writing in the July issue of Radiology, a journal for specialists in X-ray and radium, he said:

"The residual radiation from an air burst bomb is insignificant. The significant radiation occurs in a matter of micro-seconds and does not extend beyond a 2,000 yard radius.

"Immediately after a detonation such as occurred at Hiroshima or Nagasaki, it is perfectly safe to enter into a bombed area and rescue the thousands whose injuries will be such that they will not be able to walk."

Ellison Sues for Million

New York, July 25 (AP)—Inventor Frank Hugh Ellison started a $1,000,000 lawsuit today, charging other people had helped themselves to his system of selling 25-cent insurance policies by slot machines at airline terminals. The Brooklyn inventor filed his infringement suit in Federal Court against Central Air Terminal, Inc.; the Fidelity and Casualty Company of New York and its president, Bernard M. Culver; Associated Aviation Underwriters; and the firm of Pendleton and Pendeiton, Inc.

Divorce Is Denied

Brockton, Mass., July 26 (AP)—Sixty-nine-year-old John Stevens of Auburn, N. Y., who claimed "75 per cent of married women have boy friends," was denied a divorce today. The wealthy department store owner sought to divorce his 48-year-old Plymouth bride of 11 months on charges she married him "for his money and was cold and indifferent."

Authorities Differ

Boston, July 26 (AP)—U. S. Commerce Secretary Charles Sawyer says he finds the jobless situation in New England "serious", but better than he thought, while Massachusetts Gov. Paul A. Dever says it's bad and getting worse.

Assignment Approved

Washington, July 26 (AP) — The Senate Republican Policy Committee today approved assignment of Senator Dulles (R-N.Y.) to two minor committees—rules and District of Columbia.

Mrs. Roosevelt Answers Charges

Charges of Francis Cardinal Spellman (left) that Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt (right) has a "record of anti-Catholicism" were answered by Mrs. Roosevelt in her copyrighted column "My Day" published in the New York World Telegram. Cardinal Spellman in a letter to Mrs. Roosevelt on July 21 criticized her for her opposition to federal funds for parochial and private schools and said "your record of anti-Catholicism stands for all to see." Mrs. Roosevelt wrote "I want freedom of religion to prevail in this country" and said she had supported Alfred E. Smith, a Catholic, in every campaign he made.

July Milk Price Holds for August; Prevents Decrease

U. S. Agriculture Bureau Announces Decision; Was Asked by Producers

New York, July 26 (AP)—The U. S. Department of Agriculture today announced extension of the July minimum price of $5.24 a hundredweight (about 47 quarts for Class 1A milk during August.)

The action will prevent a drop of 32 cents a hundredweight in the minimum price which otherwise would occur on August 1.

Class 1A milk is chiefly fluid milk sold in the New York milk marketing area.

The announcement, made here by C. J. Blanford, New York area milk marketing administrator, said extension of the July price was asked by milk producer organizations representing a majority of the dairy farmers supplying the New York market.

The producer group made the request in view of drouth conditions in many areas of the New York milkshed during recent weeks.

"Official government reports on crop and weather conditions show that since June 1 temperatures generally have been above normal, that precipitation in many areas of the milkshed has been below normal and that crop and pasture conditions have been adversely affected. The reports said that milk production has been declining more than is normal for this season.

Three Krupa Aides Seized in Detroit On Narcotics Count

Band Members Arrested With Three Girls; Two Plead Guilty, Out on Bond

Detroit, July 26 (AP)—The third member of Gene Krupa's well-known band to be accused of possessing narcotics illegally was arrested in a downtown hotel room early today.

Police took Ralph Blaze, 27-year-old guitarist, into custody after finding two marihuana cigarettes and a small smoking pipe in the room.

Two fellow band members, trombonist Herbert Randel, 28, and trumpeter John P. Bellow, 22, pleaded guilty yesterday to violation of federal narcotics regulations and are free on $1,000 bond pending sentencing.

Police said they had cocaine in their possession when arrested Sunday.

Randel said he lived at (114-21 132nd street) Richmond Hill, N. Y., and Bellow said his home is at (128 Trenton street) in Paterson, N. J. They appeared in court before Federal Judge Arthur F. Lederle.

Blaze, of Weehawkin, N. J., was held for questioning, as were three young girls arrested with the three musicians.

Two of the girls, identified by federal narcotics agents as Norma J. Vandervalde, 19, of Muskegon, and Mary Lou Selig, 18, of Grand Haven, told officers they flew to Detroit to visit Randel and Bellow for a week-end. They were arrested with the men.

The third, picked up with Blaze

Senators Irked Over State Acts

Acheson's Department Ignored Advice Given by Vandenberg, Dulle on Strategy

Draft Alternate

Two Busy on Another Plan With Vorys, of House

Washington, July 26 (AP)—Republican backers of military aid for western Europe moved today to cut more than half President Truman's $1,450,000,000 foreign arms program.

Greeted with a storm of criticism, the President's proposal seemed to have headed the bipartisan foreign policy toward one of its severest tests in Congress.

Senators Vandenberg (R.-Mich.) and Dulles (R.-N.Y.), who have taken active parts in trying to keep that policy alive, were obviously irked that the State Department had ignored their advice to submit only a token arms program to Congress already fretting about foreign spending.

They felt themselves open to attack from G.O.P. colleagues on the ground that the administration seemed to be making cooperation a one-way street.

Nevertheless, the two were reported working with Rep. Vorys (R.-Ohio) on an alternative plan. Under it Congress might be asked to approve a $77,000,000 outlay to forward $450,000,000 in surplus military equipment to North Atlantic Pact signers and make about $200,000,000 more available to buy new equipment for them at home and abroad.

This would be in addition to about $325,000,000 to continue arms aid for Greece and Turkey, the amount the President asked.

Thus the total cash outlay under the alternative plan would be less than half of the total sought by Mr. Truman. He also asked the $77,000,000 for repairing, packeting and shipping surplus supplies along with about $1,000,000,000 for new equipment for eight Atlantic Pact signers.

This alternate proposal, just taking shape, represented the first move toward compromising a program that stirred a storm of criticism from both Democrats and Republicans. The criticism was heavier in volume than the approval Mr. Truman's plan got from administration supporters when he formally submitted it yesterday.

As an example, Senator George (D.-Ga.), who has gone along on most of Mr. Truman's foreign policy moves, charged that an effort is being made "to stampede Congress into quick action."

"The moves that have been made gave an impression of an urgency that is not there," the Georgia senator declared. "There is no need for urgency and it would be most unfortunate if action is taken on the arms program before the defense council is set up under the Atlantic Pact."

In submitting the proposal, President Truman told Congress he was covering only "the most pressing needs for military aid."

But Senator Dulles told a reporter the arms program has been ready, in about the form in which it was submitted, for six months or more.

He said this delay demonstrated, to him at least, that the program was not so pressing it couldn't wait until Europe's needs are charted by the North Atlantic Defense Council. This body is to be set up under the pact ratified by the Senate last week.

Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of his party's policy committee, blasted the President's proposal as one that would have Congress "substantially abdicate all functions relating to foreign policy."

Senator Wherry of Nebraska,

Washington, July 26 (AP)—The position of the Treasury July 22: Net budget receipts $80,717,528.38; budget expenditures $116,330,529.43; cash balance $2,656,446,995.14; customs receipts for month $19,372,142.82; budget receipts fiscal year July 1, $1,522,157,674.32; budget expenditures fiscal year $2,586,519,252.53; budget deficit $1,064,361,578.21; total debt $252,997,111,160.60; increase over previous day $58,169,139.88; gold assets $24,518,381,384.82.

Arab League Is Said to Be Losing Strength, Because of Feuding Among States' Leaders

Beirut, Lebanon, July 26 (AP)—Neutral observers say that the Arab League is dying on its feet and has ceased to be an important factor in the Middle East.

Personal feuding among leaders of member states, they say, has blocked attainment of the goal of cooperation set up when the league was organized in Cairo in March 1945.

The seven founding Arab states agreed in Cairo to work for "real collaboration" and to "strengthen the ties" between one another.

Well informed Arabs privately admit the Arab states are further from the goal today than they were at the time of the league's founding; that the bickerings which hamstrung Arab fighting efforts in the war against Israel are just as evident in the war's aftermath.

The Arab world today is split into two blocs—one led by Egypt and including Saudi Arabi, Syria and Lebanon; the other composed of Hashemite-Jordan (Trans-Jordan) and Iraq, also ruled by the Hashemite family.

The first bloc is strongly opposed to plans by Hashemite-Jordan and Iraq for a regional Arab unity. King Abdullah of Jordan wants what he calls a greater Syria. This would include his own kingdom, Arab Palestine, Syria and Lebanon. These four areas compose the Syria that existed under the Ottoman empire up to World War I.

Iraq favors a fertile crescent scheme, which would unite Iraq, the present Syria and Lebanon. It is believed Hashemite-Jordan and Arab Palestine eventually would join this setup, if ever organized.

Some observers believe that over a period of years some kind of greater Syria-Fertile Crescent combination is likely to be created, possibly under the leadership of Marshal Husni Zaim, new president of Syria and current strong man of the Middle East.

Such an eventuality would leave Egypt and Saudi Arabia off by their lonesome.

Interference by western powers—strongly disliked by Arab nationalists—may influence the development of any alliances. Currently Great Britain seems to be backing Hashemite-Jordan, and Iraq. Observers say France is working to regain its former influence in Syria and Lebanon.

The United States, relatively a newcomer in Middle East politics, apparently is supporting the status quo and the principle that the Arab peoples have the right to freely choose the government or alliance they wish.

The charter of the Arab league provides for council meetings twice a year. However, the council has not met for more than a year and there is no indication any meeting will be called soon.

The Arab states entered the Palestine war with mutual promises of assistance. During the fighting there were charges these promises had not been kept. The war ended with the Arab states negotiating separate armistice agreements.

Egyptian papers assert regularly that King Abdullah has reached a "gentleman's agreement" with the Jews. Hashemite-Jordan denies this. Lebanon, too, has been charged with dealing with the Jewish state.

Observers say Arab disunity is making the Middle East with its rich reserves of oil more vulnerable to Communist activities.

So far Communism has not made much progress among the Arabs, in spite of great general poverty, but diplomatic sources say well-organized Communist efforts are achieving some success among Arab refugees forced out of their Palestine homes.

The Communist line seems to be directed toward two ends: Widening the split between the Arab camps and creating internal dissension wherever possible.

N. A. M. Would Ban Aid To Discriminating Nations

Hamilton, N. Y., July 26 (AP)—The National Association of Manufacturers today called for discontinuance of U. S. economic aid to nations which discriminate against American private investment.

Noel Sargent, secretary of the N.A.M., said in a speech prepared for Colgate University's first annual conference on American foreign policy that foreign nations should be "willing and able" to provide a political and economic climate which makes foreign investment reasonably attractive.

If this is done, Sargent said, the N.A.M. believes that after the Economic Cooperation Administration (E.C.A.) is terminated, such private foreign investment could amount to approximately $2,000,000,000 a year.

He explained that the N.A.M. does not advocate guarantees by the United States against losses to investors.

"Investors who send their funds abroad should not do so unless they are willing to assume all ordinary economic and political risks," Sargent asserted. But, he added, such investors should be assured that "any profits they may earn, and their investment, if liquidated, may be transferred in dollars, without discrimination as between old and new investments."

The N.A.M., he recalled, has urged that economic aid to other nations be used entirely for economic recovery and development and not for political purposes. He declared:

"The association's position does not say that other nations should abandon socialistic enterprise while receiving aid from this country, but only that they should not use aid furnished by the United States to expand the field of state enterprise."

The conference last night heard a Marshall Plan official propose economic federation for western Europe and an "international supervisory authority" to regulate free intra-European trade.

Edward T. Dickinson, Jr., director of the E.C.A.'s program coordination division, said western Europe "as we know it today" could not survive a prolonged series of economic crises.

"Structural changes must take place," he asserted.

The solution, Dickinson stated, requires the elimination of, barriers to the free movement of goods, persons and, ultimately, capital.

"Basically," he said, "this means the formation of a single, pervasive, slightly competitive domestic market in western Europe of sufficient size and scope to support mass production for mass consumption."

Herbert Is Near Death in Hospital

Los Angeles, July 26 (AP)—Neddie Herbert, henchman of gambling boss Mickey Cohen, lay near dead today from shotgun wounds suffered last Wednesday in a gang warfare.

An emergency operation was ordered for Herbert and a new specialist called in to operate on the mobster's shattered liver, spleen, spine and kidneys.

Cohen, Herbert, Harry Cooper, a state-appointed bodyguard for Cohen and Miss Dee David, a former bit movie actress were ambushed as they left a smart sunset strip cafe in the pre-dawn hours. All apparently had been recovering from the wounds but, last night, Herbert suffered a relapse.

Blood transfusions were ordered and within an hour, on orders from Mickey, 17 of the gambler's mob showed up at the hospital to donate blood.

Meanwhile, detectives questioned a second ex-convict from Kansas City in their hunt for the triggermen. He is Anthony Trombino, 29, who surrendered with his attorney. His alibi was that he was home at the time of the shooting. A red-haired girl friend verified Trombino's account.

Another former Kansas City man, Tony Brancato, 34, is also being questioned. Both Brancato and Trombino are booked on suspicion of attempted murder.

Police also announced that they have located a San Diego man who may have sold one of the shotguns to the triggermen. Two guns were found near the scene of the shooting and later traced to San Diego sporting goods stores.

Earlier, Attorney General Fred Howser had expressed fear over the safety of Ed Johnson, proprietor of the sporting goods store. He was overdue from a vacation trip but later police said that it was Johnson's son, Roy, who had sold the gun and that he was located in San Diego.

Cohen is a key figure in the county grand jury inquiry into alleged vice payoffs to police officers. The inquiry thus far has resulted in a wholesale shakeup of the Los Angeles police department.

Brush Fire Checked Near Ashokan Spillway

Local fire headquarters was notified at 1:01 p. m. today that a brush fire was raging near the spillway of the Ashokan reservoir along Route 28A.

An official at the reservoir headworks said the blaze started in a small hay pile and was checked before it spread seriously.

Local firemen were called at 11:25 a. m. to check a fire in a car owned by John Donnelly of Port Ewen on Abeel near Wurts street. The blaze originated in an overheated brake lining, firemen said.

Six Are Injured In Auto Accident

An automobile accident near Saugerties Sunday night resulted in the hospitalization of six persons with minor injuries, state police reported today. The accident reportedly was caused when the automobile in which the six were riding was struck by a hit-run vehicle and forced off the side of the road, state police said.

Those admitted to Kingston Hospital Sunday night were listed by state police as Nicholas Paleologos, 49, driver of the automobile; his wife, Catherine and son, Nicholas, Jr., all of Brooklyn; also James Kotsaros, 57, and Cleo Kotsaros, 45, of Manhattan, and Mary Paulakis, 35, of The Bronx. Hospital authorities today reported all in "apparently good" condition and added that Nicholas Patcologos, Jr., was to be discharged from the hospital today.

The automobile was traveling on Route 212 about one and a quarter miles west of Saugerties when it was sideswiped by an unknown vehicle and was forced into the guard rail on the right side of the road, state police said. The Paleologos vehicle overturned after hitting the guard rail.

State police of the Lake Katrine sub-station reported that information on the accident was not received until late Monday because of the fact that all the occupants of the damaged car had been taken to the hospital immediately following the accident.

Rabid Raccoon Found In Town of Marbletown

High Falls, July 26—Asa Clearwater has received a letter from Dr. Gilbert Hoppenstedt, county veterinarian, stating that the raccoon head received from him by laboratory tests showed evidence of rabies. Dr. Hoppenstedt advised all persons having contact with such animal contact the health department or their own physician relative to receiving Pasteur treatment.

Mr. Clearwater and his nephew, Luke Clearwater of Kingston saw the raccoon on the Coxing Road just above the Jansen homestead Sunday afternoon, July 17, as they were driving toward Rosendale. They got out of the car and captured the animal alive and took it to Quick's Garage and Dr. Hoppenstedt was called.

This is the first known case of rabies among raccoons in the town of Marbletown although several foxes have been reported rabid.

close any except general information, giving security as their reason.

They said that heavy, strategic attack weapons such as battleships and very heavy bombers would not be turned over to the other countries. The aid plan would run to defensive arms, they said, on the theory that if attacked the Europeans initially would have to fight a holding operation.

Weapons which would be furnished to the European nations, it was said, would include tanks and anti-tank guns, armored vehicles, aircraft, labor dotenses, radar, trucks, ammunition and the like.

The President is forbidden by law to give the Europeans any atomic bombs. Asked whether other secret weapons might be provided, officials said that there were no such secret weapons.

One authority explained that even improved types of World War II arms are not now in mass production. He said that all the weapons available in this country are in general those which had become publicly known about by the end of the last war.

In the House, which is expected to carry the ball first in hearings beginning Thursday, Voisy said he is for an interim program. He said Mr. Truman had asked "too much, too soon."

Chairman Kee (D.-W. Va.) predicted the House Foreign Affairs Committee will approve the full $1,450,000,000 request.

Senator Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, called for its approval. But he said Congress must decide how much money to make available.

In submitting the program, the State Department left Congress in the dark on the amount and type of military supplies planned for the individual countries. Department officials indicated that information will be given to committees in closed door sessions.

Ceramist Purchases Residence in City

Dr. Charles Amberg, head of the ceramic department of Alfred University, who is conducting a survey of the brick industry in the Hudson valley on behalf of the brick manufacturers, has purchased the residence of Burton L. Haver at 299 Main street. Mr. Haver recently bought the O. S. Williams property on Mountain View avenue. Sale of the Haver property was made by Walter H Caunitz and daughter, local real estate brokers.

Dr. Amberg is heading the survey in the Hudson river area which will include an analysis of clay and other materials which go into the manufacture of Hudson river brick with the aim of ascertaining what production methods may be followed to improve the quality of the local brick and also to improve manufacturing methods and reduce costs of production, so that Hudson river brick may be second to none in quality and cost. A laboratory has been established at the Brigham yard where Dr. Amberg has several assistants engaged in the work.

July Milk Price

Agriculture issued notice giving interested parties opportunity to submit written views and comments on the proposed action. The department said its action was based on the written views and comments, as well as other relevant information.

The announcement said today's action involved the suspension for the month of August only of certain provisions in the federal order regulating the handling of milk in the New York milk marketing area.

It said the suspension has the effect of fixing $5.24 per hundredweight as a minimum floor price for class 1A milk for the remainder of 1949.

Other provisions of the order prevent contra-seasonal price declines during any of the months from September to December of each year. Beginning Sept. 1, the Class 1A price in the New York market, under existing provisions of the New York federal order, will again be established (for 3.5 per cent butterfat test) at 19 cents less than the Boston Class 1 price (3.7 per cent butterfat test), the announcement said.

Thus, any increases in the Boston Class 1 price after August would result in corresponding increases in the New York Class 1A price.

Blanford last week issued a prediction that the $5.24 price level would hold through August.

Tax Commission Reduces Utility Levy in Woodstock

Woodstock, July 26—The State Tax Commission has reduced the special franchise tax assessment on utilities on the town of Woodstock from 55 per cent to 32 per cent, according to information received here Monday night. The reduction will mean a tax revenue loss to the town of approximately $1,000 this year.

The reduction was ordered following a survey made by the newly created State Board of Equalization and Assessment. Similar surveys are in progress throughout the state.

The special franchise tax assessment equalization rate is set by the state and not by the town assessors. It is separate and distinct from the real property tax and is predicated upon the value of the privilege of using town property, such as streets, for utilities.

Utilities to be affected by the assessment rate reduction in Woodstock are Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, New York Telephone Company and American Telephone and Telegraph.

The percentage figure fixed by the state is the ratio of the true value of the property used to the assessed value.

Mrs. Beck Blames

and she never enjoyed being in love until she met Fernandez.

Her story ran through more affairs with men—pregnancies—attempts at suicide.

And it wound up for the day with what she called a "joke."

"If it hadn't been for that joke," she said, "I wouldn't be in the court room right now."

The story ran this way:

Mrs. Beck was superintendent of a crippled children's home in Pensacola, and a nurse "played a joke," sending Mrs. Beck's name to a lonely hearts correspondence club in Illinois.

That "joke" led to her meeting Fernandez.

They corresponded, romance bloomed, they planned to be married—and now they are charged with three "lonely hearts" slayings, one here and two in Michigan.

Paris Paper Says Russia Explodes Its First A-Bomb

Paris, July 26 (AP)—A Paris weekly newspaper claims in its current edition that Russia has exploded an atom bomb.

The story appeared in Samedi Soir, a weekly noted for sensationalism.

According to the newspaper, United States recording devices showed an atomic explosion in Siberia July 10.

This, said Samedi Soir, is the reason President Truman called a top-secret conference of military scientific and Congressional leaders.

"The United States," said the weekly, "which had managed until now to keep monopoly of the atom bomb and of the material necessary for its production is in a frightful scare since the moment it knew the U.S.S.R. had pierced the secret of the bomb."

Samedi Soir said the United States established a listening post in the Arctic after being alerted by British intelligence who had received reports from Russian refugees that the Soviets were on the point of unlocking the secret of the atom bomb.

Council Rules Australia Can't Nationalize Banks

London, July 26 (AP)—The king's privy council ruled today that the Australian government could not nationalize that country's private banks.

The council, highest judicial body in the British Commonwealth, threw out the Australian government's appeal from its own high court's ruling that nationalization of Australian banks was unconstitutional.

Australia passed a banking act in 1947 which would have taken over the country's private banks. It was fought right through the privy council by 11 private banks and three Australian states—Victoria, South Australia, and Western Australia.

Lord Samuel Porter, giving the council's decision, said:

"Your Lordships will humbly advise His Majesty that these appeals should be dismissed. They will give their reasons at a later date. The time will be indicated to the parties. In the matter of costs, that can be discussed at a time to be arranged after the parties have been able to see the reasons."

Library Fair Plans Ready for July 28

Woodstock, July 26—Several last minute announcements were made this week by Houston Richards, chairman of publicity, regarding the Woodstock Library Fair which will take place on the library grounds, Thursday, July 28, from 1 p. m. to 6 p. m. In case of rain, the fair will be held the following day.

The Maverick Summer Theatre has offered to donate its entire proceeds for Thursday evening of this week to the library fair. A booth will be erected on the library grounds where tickets for the evening performance will be sold during the hours of the fair. The production this week is "The Taming of the Shrew" by William Shakespeare.

Decorations are expected to be much gayer than ever. Miss Alice Wardwell, chairman of this department, has stated that the canvas used on the booths will be specially painted.

At the flea market table, the Woodstock Chambers will make music throughout the afternoon. Articles of unusual beauty are reported for Mrs. Blanche Rosett's quality table. Miss Isabel Doughty, chairman has completed arrangements for the puppet show which will be presented by Mr. and Mrs. Ronald B. Herrick, Kingston. Miss Anna Gander will assist Miss Doughty.

The great quantities of hats and shoes donated this year has made it necessary to range special sections for these articles, Mrs. Erna Wotstein will be in charge of the hats and will be assisted by Mrs. Florence Winters. The shoes will be handled by Mrs. Ivan Summers.

Last year, the parcel post booth was sold out within the first hour of the fair. This year the committee promises more and better than ever parcels.

Another improvement will be the additional refreshment stands placed conveniently throughout the grounds. In previous years, there has been but one which proved most inadequate for the thousands of persons attending this annual affair at the library.

Roerick Replaces Echols at Playhous

Woodstock, July 26—The Woodstock Playhouse has announced that owing to the illness of Randolph Echols, William Roerick has come from Stockbridge, Mass., to play the part of the suitor in "The Heiress" which opens at the Playhouse this evening.

Roerick was with Velma Royton in the Broadway run and will be playing his same role here. While studying at Hamilton College, he was encouraged by Alexander Woollcott to go on the stage and made his debut in Katherine Cornell's "Romeo and Juliet." A series of classical roles followed.

The war interrupted Roerick's career. He served in the infantry. Later he tourned in "This Is the Army." Last summer his play, "The Happiest Years" was tried in Stockbridge and was subsequently done in New York with Peggy Wood.

Library Benefit Concerts Enjoyed

Woodstock, July 26—In spite of a very generous program arranged by Miss Penny Perry, soprano, Robert Eric Carlson, bass and Clara Chichester, pianist, capacity audiences attending the Saturday afternoon and evening library benefit concerts at the Goddard Studio, insisted on encores which were graciously given by the artists.

Although Miss Perry and Mr. Carlson proved conclusively in their solo groups that they were experienced artists, the blending of their voices in the duet from "Traviata" by Verdi and in "Bess, You Is My Woman" from "Porgy and Bess" by Gershwin, was superb. Clara Chichester's sympathetic accompaniment, left nothing to be desired.

Penny Perry has a fine soprano voice which she used with great flexibility and poise. Her warm personality coupled with her instinct for the dramatic as evidenced in her solo and duet interpretations delighted the large audiences.

Bob Carlson's informality was most appropriate for his folk songs with guitar accompaniment. His excellent bass voice has long pleased Woodstock neighbors.

Miss Joanne Wheatley, contralto, soloist with the Fred Waring Pennsylvanians and Mr and Mrs. Ray Saxe drove from New York to attend the evening performance. Saxe is assistant manager of the Waring group. Mrs Saxe known professionally as Nadine Gay, directs the ballet work for the Pennsylvanians' television work. They commended the artists.

Vets' Dividend Blanks Ready Soon

Application blanks for the forthcoming $2,800,000,000 National Service Life Insurance dividend will be available August 29, John E. Delehanty, local Veterans Administration official, said today. This information was received locally from Carl R. Gray, Jr., administrator of veterans' affairs.

The government printing office is now printing 70,000,000 of the application forms which will be distributed at post offices, Veterans Administration offices and veterans Administration offices and veterans service organizations.

The first phase of the huge insurance dividend operation was being completed in Washington last week, Delehanty reported. He said high speed microfilming machines were photographing the last group of more than 22,000,000 insurance premium record cards.

This microfilming job, topped only by the war-time V-mail program, was necessary so that V.A. insurance offices throughout the country could continue to use the original premium record cards while the copies were used in the dividend program at a central location.

Delehanty urged local veterans not to write V.A. regarding the payments. The first checks will not be mailed until January, 1950, he said, and any unnecessary letter writing by veterans may delay the processing. He said veterans will know their applications have been received and are being processed because V.A. will return one part of the three-part application form which is now being printed for distribution August 29.

VAUGHAN GETS ANOTHER MEDAL—"In recognition of your courage and intrepidity over and beyond the call of duty, I hereby decorate you with the medal Operation Union Station." That's what President Truman reportedly said when he presented this fake medal to his military aide, Maj.-Gen. Harry Vaughan. The "operation" refers to Vaughan's brush with newsmen in Washington's Union Station upon his return from a three-week vacation cruise. (NEA-Acme photo from Newsweek.)

WHODUNITS AND SLEEP

The loyal fans of the mystery story are much misunderstood by the devotees of other types of literature, especially those who have dabbled briefly in the reading of mystery yarns. Most incomprehensible is the fact that mystery readers indulge just before bedtime, often taking a book to bed with them. How can they sleep? The non-mystery reader shudders and reaches for a travel book.

The fact is that the true mystery fan cares very little about whodunit. He picks up the mystery tale, often badly written, badly constructed and incredible, simply because it is so different from his own life. The woman tired to death of the eternal round of marketing, meal getting, dish washing, trying to decide whether she will ge a new winter coat or wear the shabby one another year and forget the cost of food, turns to the mystery story because it offers the sheer contrast of unreality. The statesman, overwhelmed by problems whose right and wrong solution will aid or injure the whole world, turns to it because its problems are so silly and so easily solved. That rests him.

The true whodunit fan can stop at any point. Slyly opening doors and fingers clutching in the dark have no terrors for him. He closes the book on them and goes peacefully to sleep, knowing all will be well in the end. But a travel book, on the other hand, by its very reality takes hold of the reader and makes him part of the hard journey on horseback, by oxcart, in canoe. Can that be restful?

The wise reader enjoys both these and many others. He finds what kind of literature invigorates him, and reads that when he needs vigor. He finds that which makes the nerves of his body relax like the paws of a sleeping kitten, and reads it when he is weary. Literature is all things to all men.

INDUSTRIAL DISMANTLING

There still is much pulling and hauling over the question of dismantling industrial plants in Germany, particularly in the Ruhr Valley. The program of dismantling originally had two objectives. One was to destroy the potential ability of Germany to make war; the other was to make available equipment which could be sent to Allied nations as reparations for war damage.

There has been persistent disagreement with the dismantling program in America, based largely on the facts that American tax dollars have been used to send to Europe goods which could have been produced in the dismantled plants, and that production and profits of the plants might long ago have materially reduced the burden of rebuilding Germany and supporting the Germany economy pending its recovery. The question is raised whether the German economy will ever recover if the original reparations plan is carried out in full.

Charges and counter-charges are thick, and it is becoming more and more difficult to sift them out and get a true picture of why many American officials and congressmen press for further reductions in dismantling, and why England, France and Russia want to go ahead with the full operation. Moreover it is no simple thing to balance the economic needs of Europe against the possibility that a re-armed Germany might rise again.

In his Chicago address to the Shriners, President Truman called attention to the fact that the United Nations exists to promote and preserve peace in the world, and declared it should be given the strength and energy to achieve those purposes. These were welcome words. Recently we have been acting a little as though the question of peace and freedom in the world rested entirely on the shoulders of the United States, as though ours alone were the tasks of arming and defending the world and building the structure of peace.

The British historian, Arnold J. Toynbee, who is about to return to England after a period of writing in the United States, forsook his preoccupation with the past to give his opinion on the probable future of the world. He expects the cold war to be with us for a long time. He defines it as a kind of competition between ways of life. Human nature may change somewhat in adapting itself to the situation, but this has been done before, says the historian.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE NEW YORK MAYORALTY

The mayor of New York is a fiscal and administrative official who deals with a budget of over a billion dollars a year, approximately the size of the budget of the State of New York. He is charged with the policing, the sanitation, the education (elementary, high school and college), the transportation facilities of 8,000,000 human beings.

One would expect that, in the metropolis of the world, such a public post would go to a man of extraordinary administrative capacity and financial genius. Actually, the city is in very sad shape financially. Real estate taxes are so high as to be a factor in the discouragement of building. The transportation problem has become so fouled that to many it seems hopeless. The city has embarked upon the socialistic enterprise of operating its own means of transportation, but that has not eliminated strikes, provided decent working conditions nor found the financing for essential improvements. The streets are dirty beyond anything that has been visible in the more than half century that I have known New York.

So the politicians selected, in private conclave, three politicians who are to run for mayor against one another. Not one of them is famous for his administrative skill or financial genius.

William O'Dwyer, the current mayor, has been a policeman, a lawyer, a magistrate, and the district attorney of Brooklyn. He is an affable person, possessing great charm and is, no doubt, public-spirited. He has quarreled with Tammany Hall and is what may euphemistically be called pro-labor; that is, he knows where the votes are. He is direct and at times hard-spoken. His administration of New York during the past four years has not been particularly notable, but it, on the record, has been no worse than the administration of Fiorello La Guardia, who won great fame internationally but left his town bankrupt.

Newbold Morris has, at times, been a Republican but generally travels with those who like to call themselves liberals. He is handsome charming, well-spoken, rather aristocratic in manner but not startlingly bright. I have personally heard the very men who brought about his nomination comment on his good intentions and lack of acumen. He was president, for a time, of the city council, when its meetings attracted attention for their lack of deliberation and their general tendency to become a brawl. Perhaps it was not his fault, a president not being a czar. Nothing in his career would indicate administrative skill or financial knowledge.

Vito Marcantonio is a fiery little congressman who represents the East of Harlem. He was a protege of La Guardia at one time. He has steadily and without deviation supported, by speeches and votes in Congress, the Communist party line as expounded in the "Daily Worker" and other Communist publications. He heads the American Labor Party, which, in New York state, is regarded as the political arm of Communism. He has never demonstrated administrative or financial ability and no one would falsely accuse him of possessing either.

I have scanned the tickets for other men of outstanding ability in other posts and no such names appear. Apparently, the Democrats and Republicans have done the best they could to garner the votes of the organized racial and religious components of the city. All tickets are evenly balanced to take care of that, but no ticket shows any particular regard for the city.

Is is all an interesting commentary on what these politicians glibly call democracy. The Republicans ordinarily could not elect anyone, so their problem was to form a coalition with Dave Dubinsky's Liberal Party and International Garment Workers Union, which controls a large block of votes. Dubinsky chose the slate and should Newbold Morris be elected, Dubinsky will be the Boss of New York.

On the other hand, Ed Flynn, the Bronx boss of the Democratic party, insisted on the renomination of Bill O'Dwyer, after he had declined the office and another had been selected for the nomination. Should O'Dwyer be elected, Ed Flynn will be the Boss.

And, of course, should Vito Marcantonio be elected, I suppose, by past performances, Joe Stalin will be the Boss.

There it is, gentlemen. You have your choice —Dubinsky, Flynn, or Stalin.

That Body of Yours

LIVING LONG WITH A FAILING HEART

Not long ago if a patient consulted his doctor because of a general weakness and getting out of breath easily and was told that he had heart disease he believed he was doomed, that the hand of death was already upon him. Today we know that while heart failure has not changed, that the attitude of the heart patient has greatly changed. This is due to his physician now being able to show him a way of living that may enable him to live as long or nearly as long as if he did not have heart disease.

More than half of all patients with heart disease will have heart failure during their lifetime. With the first sign of heart failure the physician now takes a long time view and plans the patient's method of living for years ahead.

In the "Medical Clinics of North America," Dr. Sol Bilson, Assistant Clinical Professor of Medicine Columbia University, states that patients with heart failure, can be made much more comfortable, the period of hospital care shortened, and many more patients restored as useful members of the community.

This treatment of heart failure is simple and logical; and if the patient follows the suggestions to his daily health habits, his life may be prolonged for many years.

The first thought is to lessen fear in the patient's mind. Instead of considering himself doomed to die any minute, he learns that prolonging his life is to a great extent up to himself. He must be willing to follow the physician's advice as to how much exercise he can take safely, how much rest he must obtain not only at night but during the day, and how much and the kinds of food he must eat, the value of rest and the danger of exercise immediately after eating. While he can do too much work or take too much exercise, he is taught that too much rest not only weakens the heart but the entire body.

The big point is that he learns that the former idea of heart disease being immediately fatal is inaccurate. He is encouraged by the knowledge that newer methods of treatment offer much hope of increased life expectancy and useful living.

In addition to rules of right living, the usual drug digitalis to strengthen the heart beat and drugs to drive water from the tissues are used daily.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Washington — There was more than meets the eye behind the fight of Tennessee's congressman Albert Gore to kill the Brannan farm plan in the House. Truman administration friends had counted upon Gore's support, but what they had not counted upon was his burning ambition to become a senator.

For some time, Gore has had his eye on ailing, aged Senator Kenneth McKellar, also of Tennessee. It is no secret that, someday, Gore hopes to fill McKellar's shoes.

This was known to Allan Kline, smart president of the conservative Farm Bureau. Since the Farm Bureau is a power in Tennessee politics, Kline promised to support Gore for the Senate if he would oppose the Brannan plan.

Note—Behind Kline's own opposition to the Brannan plan is a bitter jealousy for Secretary of Agriculture Brannan. Kline had expected to be secretary of agriculture himself under Dewey. However, neither Kline's feelings nor his views are shared by rank-and-file farmers—as they demonstrated at the polls last November.

Backstage with Hugh Scott

Backstage debates over the ousting of Congressman Hugh Scott as chairman of the Republican National Committee were more significant than the fragmentary news leaking to the press. Featuring the debates were two important highlights.

1. Bitterness was almost as intense as that between the Dixiecrat and Truman wings of the Democratic party—especially between Taft and Dewey cohorts.

2. The party leaders, figuring a Republican victory certain in 1952, already are feverishly moving for position.

That was why stubborn Mr. Scott—Dewey's man—was not finally ousted until 16 states signed a petition to call a meeting of the full committee for ousting purposes; also until a secret meeting of party leaders in the Mayflower Hotel initialed a confidential memo pledging themselves to bring about Scott's exit.

These party leaders included: Senator Owen Brewster of Maine, Senator Ed Martin of Pennsylvania, Texas committeeman Rentfro Creager, who has wabbled back and forth between the Taft and Dewey camps, and Pennsylvania committeeman Mason Owlett, who represents Joe Grundy's high-tariff Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association and originally put Hugh Scott in the chairmanship.

The fact that Owlett finally initialed a memo agreeing to Scott's exit meant that his end had come.

Taft Pours Political Oil

But just as victory was within the Taft crowd's grasp their leader wavered. The senator from Ohio indicated that he wanted the new chairman of the G.O.P. to be acceptable to all factions of the party. He wanted harmony, not a row with Dewey over the chairmanship.

Hhis caused another fervid meeting in the Mayflower Hotel—once, incidentally, the camping ground of bigwig Democrats. The meeting took place in room 453, occupied by the delightfully talkative Mr. Creager of Texas, and those present included. Harrison Spangler of Iowa, an ardent Taft man; West Virginia's committeeman Walter Hallanan, also for Taft; committeeman John E. Jackson of Louisiana, one of the few admitted Republicans in that state, faithful Carroll Reece of Tennessee, who was made national chairman three years ago by Taft, and Creager himself, who claims to be for Taft.

The meeting was called to raise cain over their idol's getting too close to their political enemy, Tom Dewey, which they believed would be the greatest mistake Taft could make. Bob Taft was a great statesman, but no politician, someone wailed. Dewey, said another, was finished—dead—there was no use appeasing a dead man.

Finally, Carroll Reece tried to get Taft on the phone. It was now around midnight, but the senator was located at his brother-in-law's home in New York. Reece talked to him, but was too excited, and surrendered the phone to Texas Creager.

Taft Sympathizes

Taft agreed to meet with the group in Washington next day, July 20, which he did, again in Room 453, with approximately the same group present.

By then Reece had calmed down and told Taft bluntly that his old friends felt he was turning his back on their past loyalty.

Taft, he said, was now letting his name be used by the backers of John Danaher, ex-senator from Connecticut, to be the new national chairman. And Reece wanted it remembered that this same Danaher was Tom Dewey's candidate for the chairmanship against him, Reece, in 1946.

Taft listened sympathetically. Later in the day he got together with Senator Brewster of Maine and they arranged for John Danaher to withdraw his name as candidate for the G.O.P. chairmanship.

However, Taft still believes that the Grand Old Party should bind up its wounds and the leaders should do more than bow politely when they meet.

Note—Quoth Rentfro Creager of Texas after the last meeting adjourned: "That so-and-so Drew Pearson got the dope about our Pittsburgh meeting, but I'll be damned if he gets this one."

Merry-Go-Round

President Truman's latest candidate to head the National Security Resources Board is Dwight Palmer of General Cable Company—an A-1 man . . . Senator McGrath has just received proof that friends of Dixiecrat Governor J. Strom Thurmond offered $50 to Negroes if they would go out and buy tickets to the Democratic Committee's South Carolina Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner at which Vice President Barkley spoke . . . Democratic leaders continue to vow they will keep Congress sweating in Washington until Labor Day . . . Secretary of Defense Johnson will inspect Canada's Arctic defenses next month . . . the United States has threatened to cut off its $100,000,000 loan to Israel unless Arab refugees are sent back to Palestine. Ambassador James G. McDonald delivered this warning to Foreign Minister Sharrett.

Congress Will Debate Question of North Atlantic Nations' Strategy Toward Russia

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 26—More than the mere question of quantity of arms to aid Europe is now to be debated by Congress. In fact, the whole question of what the strategy of the North Atlantic nations is to be toward the only potential enemy now in sight—Russia— is about to be explored.

For several months now the American people have been sold a bill of goods on armament. They have been told that the next war can be won in a "blitz" of about 30 days, that "strategic bombing" is the first line of offense, that land armies are virtually obsolete, that carrier aviation is really superfluous, and that "unification" means that hundreds of millions of dollars can be saved by putting most of the armament money into the U. S. Air Force.

But the American people now are going to begin asking questions. If the U. S. Air Force is right in the argument it has been propagandizing for several months, then why is it necessary to send $1,500,000,000 to European nations for armament, as President Truman now recommends? If the next war is to be a short war why isn't the amount that has already been appropriated for armament by the United States quite sufficient?

The intercontinental bomber has been exhibited as a plane that can fly from the United States to Europe and back and that can bring the enemy to its knees by carrying that atom bomb to 70 targets inside Russia.

So the problem of what the over-all strategy of America is to be in the next war comes into question.

If, indeed, land armies are really, after all, of some use, then the argument in favor of building up several divisions among the members of the North Atlantic Pact on the continent of Europe becomes pertinent. If, also, the intercontinental bomber is not what has been heralded and overseas bases are necessary on the continent, then the United States needs to build airfields abroad and to arrange with the European members of the North Atlantic Pact to police and garrison such bases and to provide ground crews for their operation.

The moment the United States starts a flow of money for arms aid to Europe, that moment America becomes dependent on the whims of political governments abroad. At any time, if the Communist infiltration becomes effective, all the material and armament supplied to such nations could fall into the hands of potential enemy. That's why the navy proposed supercarriers as floating bases, independent of foreign politics.

Speeches by W. Stuart Symington, secretary of air, and General Vandenberg, chief of the air force have indicated that the air force can do the job by strategic bombing. Certainly under this line of reasoning, not a dollar of aid should be be given to European nations for strategic bombing or for air power, inasmuch as the U. S. Air Force is ready to do everything that has to be done.

Surely it would be inconsistent to spend a lot of money to build up air power in European nations when at the same time the U. S. Navy and the ground forces of the U. S. Army are being denied money for their own aviation.

There is no way out of the dilemma except to re-examine the whole war plan to which $16,000,000,000 is being allocated. Sooner or later the question of how much armament expenditure the American economic system can stand will have to be decided.

If the European nations need armament aid in order to boost their morale, then a cut in the appropriation for armament for the United States alone would seem to be in order as some money is transferred to Europe. The whole job can be done for much less than $16,000,000,000 if what the air force enthusiasts say is true —namely, that all that is needed in the next war is air power, that land armies are obsolete, and that navies are important only as a cargo-carrying service across the Atlantic and perhaps to take care of the menace of submarines.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, July 25—This is a less emotional approach to a proposition which I considered with some fervor yesterday. I contend that the editorial treatment of General Harry H. Vaughan, of President Truman's staff, has been a wanton imposition on the privilege of a free press and more a discredit to journalism than to Vaughan. I am above offering for your consideration the fact that I have not been a sycophant at the court of Harry Truman. He dislikes me and I have criticized him for explicit reasons. I defend Vaughan against gossip and gratuitous abuse because a victim has no defense against dirt, and point out the absence of charges against him. Follow closely.

This is by Joseph Alsop, in the off-Republican Herald-Tribune.

"In a good many ways, Major General Harry Vaughan explains the failure of the Truman administration on the domestic front. With the very best intentions Truman has continuously tried to give this country progressive government. But he has not done so.

"The trwouble is that the two essentials of successful progressive government are, first, ideas and second, ideals. You cannot very well progress unless you have some notion of where you want to go and why. And you cannot induce people to follow you along the different road of social change unless you can inspire them with an inner fire and excitement. For these reasons, the fact that the President has chosen such a favorite becomes exceedingly significant.

"Certainly no one would ever accuse General Vaughan, with his peculiar talent for blunders and smoking-room stories, of possessing either ideals or ideas."

Down to here you have some lacy, rhetorical flouncing by a mincing essayist who holds Vaughan up to scorn for that which he calls the failure of Truman's administration without admitting to your consideration the fact that Truman himself detested those proposals which are falsely called "progressive." Truman had no belly for them at all. If this precious fellow knows anything about his topic he knows that the "progressive" measures are just Communist wall-mottoes forced on the party by a few reckless adventurers. And he knows that after Truman rejected them once they were jammed through the convention by an off-Communist faction of non-Democrats called Americans for Democratic action.

This faction, of which Eleanor Roosevelt, Chester Bowles and Leon Henderson are manipulators, has declared that it is attached to neither the Democratic nor the Republican party. It reserves the right to latch onto whichever party seems to be winning. Its tendencies are totalitarian. At Philadelphia, Truman was forlorn. He had telephoned William O. Douglas, of the Supreme Court, three times to be his running-mate, Douglas also thought the ticket was doomed and refused his own future chance of the presidency. Finally, Truman was willing to accept any old platform for the simple reason that he figured the next president would be Tom Dewey.

When Alsop speaks of Vaughan's "peculiar talent for blunders" he offers no particulars. So that is intentional, unrelieved smear, calculated to advance the Herald Trubune's pathetic effort to get one of the journalistic awards this year. This has become an obsession. Cheap exploits and artificial campaigns are inflated into crusades.

But what bearing has Vaughan's talent for smoking-room stories on the failure of Truman, granting that he has failed? Who says Vaughan has such a talent? Are you willing to accept Alsop's word against Vaughan? Why? What is wrong with smoking-room stories, whatever they are? Does Alsop prefer ladies' room stories? Let's get some facts here.

Now we find this dear boy hedging. Alsop has been trying by insinuation to arouse suspicion that Vaughan had some crooked connection with a contract fixer named Hunt, who wheedled an autographed photograph of Vaughan and hung it in his office to impress his clients. The Herald Tribune blubbered with phony emotion two years ago over a hypothetical squirt in a government bureau who came under false but cruel suspicion of disloyalty. Now we find the same blabber willing to hang Vaughan or at best parade him in disgrace merely because a lisping tirade says his picture hung in another man's office.

"Photographs of the great, if possible suitably inscribed, are standard equipment in the offices of the five per cent tribe," Alsop says.

At this point, not that it matters one way or another, I challenge this fellow to identify and locate five such offices, to state whose photographs hang in which ones and to quote the inscriptions.

"Prominent in Colonel Hunt's picture gallery," he continues, referring to his paper's bunny mounted on a board with glaring eyes and gnashing fangs, "was General Vaughan. Most often the photographs in such offices are mere bait for boobs. If the average five per center delivers on his promises, it is not because of friendships with the great but, merely because of his familiarity with the shabby by-ways of the government. The joke is that Colonel Hunt evidently was not a fraud of this sort. But it seems that he was genuinely able to secure Vaughan's aid for his clients. Important documentary evidence to this effect is now in the hands of the Senate investigating committee. * * * If what is known to date cannot be disproved by General Vaughan he will appear as one of the most useful and obliging friends a five percenter ever had."

Read that again. See how, with slippery words, it says nothing that the victim can reply to.

If Alsop "known" anything "to date" he is so coy about his knowledge as to leave an impression that he is merely trying to bolster a paltry exploit of his own sheet at an innocent man's expense.

That is not reporting. It is not fair editorial comment. But it is typical of a strange campaign that tends to justify Truman's contempt for our press.

I have read no charge implicating Vaughan in crooked work. That kind of accusation a defendant can answer. This garbage not only soils the victim but tends to discredit the whole institution of free, responsible journalism.

Numbers Racket Arrests Widen in Three-State Area

New York, July 26 (AP)—A three-state roundup of an alleged $50,000,000-a-year numbers racket ring—which juggled the figures to cheat the players—widened with more arrests today.

Six men were booked here shortly after dawn, following all-night questioning by District Attorney Frank S. Hogan and aides.

Nine persons were arrested yesterday in New Jersey and Cincinnati, and two were seized here previously.

Today's batch of prisoners—including two newspaper circulation employes—were charged with conspiracy and contriving a lottery.

The cheating was done by manipulating the reports on the daily totals of the Cincinnati, Ohio, Clearing House Association.

Dennison Duble, secretary of the association, was reported to have admitted he had juggled the figures for a year and a half so that the players' normal 1000-to-1 chance would be reduced enormously.

The Cincinnati bank clearing figures were a factor in determining the winning numbers on which suckers in many states bet their pennies, dimes and dollars.

One of the prisoners, Anthony Strollo, alias Tony Bender, was described by Hogan as "one of the top underworld figures in the east."

Strollo was arrested yesterday in Cliffside Park, N. J., as the three-state crackdown hit. Duble, who was arrested in Cincinnati, will be brought to New York to face charges.

Seven persons were arrested in Newark, N. J., after New York and New Jersey officers raided the alleged headquarters of the racket in a fashionable home.

Bail Is $100,000 Each

Three of the Newark prisoners were held in bail of $100,000 each. One of them is the occupant of the raided house, Daniel Zwillman, a cousin of Abner ("Longy") Zwillman, a prominent prohibition era figure in the Newark area.

Two men were arrested July 12 in an "initial raid" in Staten Island, the district attorney said.

A numbers player selected a sequence of any three digits—such as 237 or 999 and put his bet on that for the day. With the odds 1000-to-1, the payoff was only 640-to-1.

The raided ring's winning number was made up this way, in order: The second and third digits from the noon Wall Street bond figures and second digit of the Cincinnati Clearing House daily total.

A member of the ring obtained the first two figures from the Newark branch of the financial firm of Kean, Taylor and Company, Hogan said, but there was no suggestion that the company was involved in the racket.

After obtaining the first two digits of the number on which the ring would have to pay off, its mathematicians figured out what third digit would cost the ring the least in payoffs.

That's where Duble came in, according to authorities.

Notified Cincinnati

Hogan said the eastern wing of the ring notified the confederate in Cincinnati, who provided the selected third digit in the right place in the clearing house total. Thus many players were gypped by rigged number, and they never knew it.

The district attorney here said the complete business figures, from which the numbers were taken, were printed in the New York Mirror and New York Journal American. Hogan said the newspapers offered to discontinue printing the figures, but he asked them to keep on until the authorities completed their 18-month investigation.

Duble, who was seized on a warrant charging conspiracy to contrive a lottery, waived extradition and is due to be brought here in a day or two. Strollo faces the same charge, and another charge of conspiracy.

New York authorities participated in the Cincinnati arrest as well as in the New Jersey roundup.

Hogan identified the men arrested here today as:

Edward Kane, 44, of 8801 Shore Road, Brooklyn, operator of a recreation center and pool room at 1456 Broadway, Manhattan.

Irving Bitz, 46, of 80-26 217th street, Queens Village, a circulation inspector in the employ of the New York Journal-American.

Abraham Goldberg, 47, of 77-66 194th street, Flushing, described as assistant circulation manager of the New York Journal-American.

Emilio (Sam) Strollo, 61, of 95-30 125th street, Richmond Hills, manager of a check cashing concern at 218 West 35th street, and brother of Anthony Strollo.

Jack Feldman, 48, of 2116 Morris avenue, The Bronx, proprietor of a cigar store at 218 West 34th street.

Martin Martinson, 36, of 66 Eleventh street, Brooklyn, employed as a cook at Kane's recreation center.

Documents Are Found

Washington, July 26 (AP)—Senators investigating the capital's "five per centers" have turned up documents of more value than the bulky diary of a former army colonel, Senator Mundt (R-S.D.) said today. He declined to disclose their nature but indicated they will figure prominently in public hearings expected to start next week. Mundt is a member of the Senate Investigating Subcommittee which is looking into the operations of persons who offer to help businessmen get government contracts for a fee—often 5 per cent of the amount of a contract.

Governor to Talk On Moving Heavy Farm Machinery

Albany, N. Y., July 26 (AP)—Governor Dewey confers today with farm leaders on their protests against regulations restricting movement of heavy farm machinery on state highways.

The leaders came to Albany at Dewey's request to go over the problem with him and other state officials.

Present law requires that permits be obtained for movement on state highways of vehicles wider than eight feet.

The State Farm Bureau has told the governor that "the red tape and inconvenience" involved in getting such permits "is more than farmers will tolerate."

Dewey said Friday in announcing the conference, that it was "exceedingly important" that farm machinery be moved whenever necessary. However, he added that there was also a "very serious question of safety on the highways, particularly on week-ends."

The governor vetoed as "unworkable" a bill passed by the 1949 Legislature that would have permitted farm vehicles exceeding eight feet in wide to operate on state highways without permits if accompanied by a sheriff or state policeman.

The charge that "red tape" had held up issuance of permits was denied by a spokesman for the State Department of Public Works, who said the permits were issued "generally within 24 hours after an application is filed."

Dewey said those invited to today's conference were:

Henry Sherwood, chairman of the Farm Conference Board and master of the State Grange; Edward S. Foster, general secretary of the State Farm Bureau Federation and secretary of the Farm Conference Board; Warren Hawley, president of the Farm Bureau; Monroe Babcock of the State Poultry Council, and Robert Burnett, secretary of the Farm Machinery Dealers Association.

Porcupines have been known to nibble on dynamite for the small amount of salt it contains.

No Reflection on Me!

Life is lovely, life is gay,
Every day I am quite OK,
(Unless I chance to peek or peer or Glance into a three-way mirror.)
—Frances G. Cruze

Mother—Young man, we turn the lights off at 11 o'clock.
Young Man—Oh, boy! That'll be keen!

Wonder if there ever was a girl with pretty legs who was unaware of their appeal?

Doris — When is your sister thinking of getting married?
Tom—Constantly.

An argument is where two people are trying to get the last word first.

Freshman—What's the idea of you wearing my raincoat?
Room Mate—Well, you wouldn't want your new suit to get wet, would you?

Some of the best dividends are not cash.

Most women can't add and don't care to learn.

If there lives a woman who wouldn't rather dine with a man than another woman, we don't know her and don't want to meet her.

Mistress (to prospective maid) —Why did you leave your last place?
Applicant—Oh, it was so dull. They were trying to live on their income.

You can give a man a necktie, but you can't make him wear it.

Wife—We are told one-third of the nation is ill-housed, ill-nourished, and ill-clad.
Husband—I didn't realize so many go away for the summer.

Man—What are you raising in your garden this year?
Neighbor—Johnson's Plymouth Rocks, Brown's Leghorns and Smith's Wyandottes.

Shanghai Gets Its Worst Typhoon in Span of 34 Years

Shanghai, July 26 (AP)—Buffeted for 25 hours by the worst typhoon in years, Shanghai today counted 19 dead and upwards of 200,000 homeless.

Streets were flooded under one to six feet of water. Power lines were down. The typhoon, the same that hit Okinawa earlier, ended last midnight but communications were not restored until today.

Fourteen persons died when a tenement house in the Chapel district collapsed. Five others were electrocuted by power lines blown down.

Weather observers said it was Shanghai's worst storm since July 28, 1915. Two hundred were killed in that one and 26 ships were wrecked on the Whangpoo and the Yangtze.

More than half of the small huts in the lower residential district of this city of 6,000,000, were destroyed last night.

(The typhoon left two dead on Okinawa, 16 Americans injured and damage to U. S. installations unofficially estimated at $20,000,000. Air force installations were heavily damaged by winds up to 150 miles an hour but headquarters in Tokyo reported minimum plane losses. Okinawa has a B-29 base.

(The army in Tokyo ordered planes and ships to stand by to carry relief supplies to the U. S. base 300 miles south of Japan. Some facilities were wiped out; others suffered 50 per cent destruction. New buildings, especially designed to resist typhoon winds, came out of it with slight damage, the army said.

(One of the two killed was the seven year old daughter of an air force officer, whose two other daughters were critically hurt. A Filipino construction worker later died of injuries. Names were not available.

(Meanwhile, Japan was alerted for a new 75 mile an hour typhoon which missed Okinawa and passed over or near Iwo Jima and was due 450 miles south of Kobe by 4 a. m., tomorrow (2 p. m., E.S.T., today.) In Shanghai three inches of water got into the ground floor of the American consulate. The British consulate compound, next door and slightly higher, escaped the muddy waters.

Trees were uprooted in the British compound grounds and in the old French Town. Streets throughout the town were littered with stalled cars; the drivers had to wade home.

The Whangpoo river was out of its banks but there wasn't much damage to river craft. This is partly due to the fact no important shipping is left on the river.

Says He Scared Mob

Donalsonville, Ga., July 26 (AP)—The mayor of a south Georgia country town said today he beat off with gunfire a mob of Ku Klux Klansmen who tried to kidnap him. Mayor C. L. Drake of nearby Iron City said "seven or eight automobiles loaded with uniformed and masked Klansmen" approached his house about 3 a. m. Sunday, July 17. "I opened fire on them and they scattered in a hurry," he said. "When they shot back they were too far away to do any harm." Iron City is a town of about 500 persons in extreme southwest Georgia. It is about 15 miles from the Alabama line and about 35 miles from Florida.

Senator Thomas Asks Prize for Mrs. F.D.R.

Washington, July 26 (AP)—Senator Thomas (D.-Utah) said today he has endorsed Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt for the Nobel Prize for outstanding contribution to human rights.

He made public a letter to the Nobel Committee of the Norwegian parliament in which he said:

"While Mrs. Roosevelt does not stand in need of further honors or encouragement, because she has plenty, there is no doubt in my mind that she is wholly worthy and that such action taken by your committee would meet with the approval of millions of American people and the people generally of the whole world."

Farm Products Drop 12 Per Cent in State

Albany, N. Y., July 26 (AP)—Prices of New York State farm products declined about 12 per cent in the last year, but farm wage rates remained relatively high.

A joint federal-state agricultural report issued yesterday said that of six types of farm wages, only one showed an advance as of July 1.

The only rise was in wages paid by the day without room or board. The average July 1 was $6.70, compared with $6.50 a year ago.

Other averages for last July 1, 1948:

Per month with room and board, $106, $108; per month with house rent furnished, $135, $139; per week with room and board, $28.25, $28.50; per week without room or board, $37.75, $38.50; per hour without room or board, 86c, 95c.

18 Persons Killed

Toledo, Spain, July 26 (AP)—An explosion in an army munitions dump last midnight killed at least 18 persons and injured 27. The blast, at Tarancon, 50 miles southeast of Madrid, destroyed many houses in the town of 60,000.

Accepts Invitation

Seoul, July 26 (AP)—President Syngman Rhee's office announced today Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek of China had accepted an invitation to visit Korea. No time for the visit was specified in the announcement.

Fifth Avenue Theft Ends in Capture

New York, July 26 (AP)—Two men fled from a Fifth avenue jewelry shop with $368,500 worth of gems yesterday, but they soon lost their loot and their liberty to a quickly-formed posse of police and store clerks.

The pair held up a dozen customers and clerks in the Brand Chatillon Corp. store at Fifth avenue and 55th street.

Carrying four diamond-set pieces, the robbers dashed into the late afternoon crowd of shoppers and strollers. And the chase was on.

A pistol shot by a policeman, a flying tackle by a passerby, some good wrestling by policemen and store clerks, and the chase was over.

The prisoners, relieved of their loot, were booked by police as Joseph Quinn, 36, a seaman, formerly of Seattle, Wash., and John Broderick, 34, a salesman, formerly of Boston.

The pair was charged with assault, robbery, and possession of a loaded pistol and burglar tools.

A burglar alarm went off when the robbers smashed a display room glass door, scooped up the gems and fled from the store in the St. Regis Hotel building.

Broderick was brought down by a flying tackle by a passing salesman, William Van Zandt, 26, of Jackson Heights, Queens, who had joined in the chase.

When the robbers entered the jewelry store, Matthew Fischer, 32, of Harrison, N. Y., was in charge. He is a nephew of Harry S. Fischer, president of the corporation.

The younger Fischer told police that Quinn drew an automatic and called out: "This is a stickup. Nobody move."

Police said Quinn stood guard while Broderick grabbed the gems. As they fled, Fischer started in pursuit, yelling, and soon was joined by others.

Boy Struck by Car

Lorenzo Giannuzzo, 10, of 162 Clinton avenue, was struck by a car as he was coming from behind two cars on Cornell street with a bicycle, according to a police report at 7:30 p. m. The boy appeared to be uninjured, but the driver of the auto failed to stop, the report said. It is believed that he might have been unaware of the mishap.

Cleaning Fluid Fire

Firemen were called at 3:40 p. m. yesterday to check a slight fire in the furnace room of the French Dye Works, 524 Broadway. Some cleaning solvent ignited and set fire to oil on the furnace room floor as the place was being cleaned, the official report said. The blaze was checked by the use of sand before firemen arrived.

Krueger-Miller Wedding Takes Place At Immanuel Church

The wedding of Miss Verna Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Miller, Sr., of 331 East Chester street, to John F. Krueger, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Krueger of 30 Fair street, took place at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church, Livingston street. The Rev. E. L. Witte officiated.

Mrs. John M. Walker, soloist, sang Because, I Love You Truly and O Promise Me. Paul Barnum was organist. The altar was decorated with white gladioli.

The bride who was escorted by her father wore a flowing white net gown designed with square neckline edged in white rosepoint lace and seed pearls. The bodice was fitted and the same rosepoint lace cascaded down the sides and train of her gown. Her fingertip veil of white net was edged with white Chantilly lace attached to a tiara of seed pearls. She carried an old fashioned shower bouquet of white roses.

Miss Ruth Krueger, sister of the bridegroom, as maid of honor, wore a pale green taffeta gown, matching mitts and carried an old fashioned bouquet of American beauty roses. Her headpiece was a coronet of matching roses.

Kenneth Miller, brother of the bride, was best man. Ushers were Gilbert Williams, cousin of the bride, and Robert Gardinier, cousin of the bridegroom.

A reception was held at the Stuyvesant Hotel for 30 of the immediate members of the bride's and bridegroom's families. Mr. and Mrs. Krueger left for a wedding trip to northern part of the state and Canada. For traveling, the bride chose a white flowered organdy dress with pink accessories. Upon their return, the couple will make their home at 37 Henry street.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Krueger attended Kingston High School. She was employed by F. Jacobson and Sons, he by the International Business Machines, Poughkeepsie.

Soprano Will Sing In Quartet Program

MILDRED MEDITZ

Mildred Meditz, soprano, who made her first appearance with the Woodstock String Quartet last season, will return as guest artist with the ensemble Wednesday night. The concert will be the fifth in this summer's series at St. James Methodist Church Hall given Wednesday nights at 8:30 o'clock.

For the program Miss Meditz has chosen four songs by Johannes Brahms: So Willst do des Armen Mainacht; Dein Blaues Auge; and Wie Froh und Frisch. For her second group she has chosen D'Anne Jouant Del'Espinette by Ravel; Ilpleure Dans Moncoeur, Debussy; and Voi Lo Sa Pete from "Cavalliaria Rusticana," by Mascagni.

The concert will open with Brahms' A Major Sonata for Piano and Violin played by Ilse Sass and Ernest Drucker. Also Brahms Rhapsodie in G Minor will be played.

Of special note will be the playing of the seldom heard Verdi String Quartet in E Minor. The composition presents technical difficulties for every player and requires a deep understanding of this great master's unusual score.

The last concert of the Woodstock String Quartet will be August 3 when Robert Willaman, clarinetist from Salt Point, will be guest artist for the Quintet for Clarinet and String Quartet by Mozart.

As has been announced the Community Chorus under the direction of C. Franklin Pierce will also be presented at the final program. A composition by Engelbert Roentgen for three string instruments will have its first performance. Henry T. Terpening, string bass, will take part in Schubert's Piano Quintet (Trout).

This week's concert with Miss Meditz will be presented in Woodstock, New Paltz and Cairo.

The final concert also will be given in Woodstock and Wittenberg.

Engaged to Wed

Saugerties, July 26—Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Mary Bonelli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bonelli of Glasco, to Don James De Gregoria, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas DeGregoria.

Stone Ridge Grange Sets August Date for 3rd Flower Show; Names Polinsky Chairman

The third annual flower show will be held August 25 at Stone Ridge Grange Hall. Plans are being made to make this flower show an outstanding exhibit this year.

Jerry Polinsky, well-known gladioli grower from Stone Ridge, has consented to be honorary chairman. Mr. Polinsky is a member of the Stone Ridge Grange and his exhibit and untiring efforts to make the show a success is entirely non-commercial. All proceeds from the sale of gladioli after the show are donated to the Grange.

A bazaar and supper will be held in conjunction with the show. Flower growers of the community are asked to note the date and urged by the committee to plan their exhibits.

Grothkopp-Kaster Marriage Announced

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Constance Louise Kaster, daughter of Mrs. Ruth Kaster, 2320 Middlefield Road, Pao Alto Calif., to William Grothkopp, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Grothkopp, Sr., 18 Pearl street. The marriage was performed May 20 at the home of the bride's mother, by the Rev. Nathaniel Lauriat of San Jose, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kaster, brother and sister-in-law of the bride, were the attendants.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony for 20 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Grothkopp left for a wedding trip to Blue Lakes, Calif., and are now making their home at Berkley, Calif.

Mrs. Grothkopp is a graduate of the University of California. She studied art and sculpture in New York city and will teach art in Leandro High School this fall.

Her husband was graduated from Kingston High School and studied piano in Kingston with Miss Lina M. Schmidtkonz. He attended New England Conservatory of Music, Boston, for two years, where he took the music supervising course. He served four years in the navy as chaplain's assistant after which he attended New York University and received his degree with honors in 1948. Mr. Grothkopp will continue his studies toward a master's degree at the University of California.

Florence Myer Becomes Engaged to Donald Krueger

Saugerties, July 26—Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Myer of Barclay Heights announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Florence Myer, to Donald Krueger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Krueger of Cleveland, Ohio. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mr. Krueger is associated with Standard Oil Co. of Ohio.

Elizabeth F. Mayr Married in Chicago

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Frances Mayr, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Mayr of 5 Wurts street, to Donn Brubeck, Chicago, Ill., was performed May 15 at Chicago. The Rev. H. P. Lovik officiated. Attendants were Ruby and James Nelson.

The bride wore a white suit with white accessories and corsage of white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Brubeck have returned to their home, 4137 Washington Boulevard, Chicago, Ill., after a visit with her mother and grandmother in Kingston.

Before going to Chicago, Mrs. Brubeck was employed in Walden.

ALUMINUM

by

JAMES H. WINTERS

One of the most important changes in piano construction is the introduction of Aluminum alloy in the making of piano plates. Winter & Company, one of the largest manufacturers of pianos, have pioneered this improvement. The plate is the metal frame which holds the tension of all the strings and must be very strong. This new Aluminum alloy, made by the Aluminum Corporation of America for Winter & Company, tests far stronger than the cast iron plate that has been in general use. Another advantage of the Aluminum plate is the big saving in weight. The new Winter & Company pianos are considerably lighter than those of other makes of the same size making them easier to move out to clean behind them or to change the position in the room.

We have several of these lovely new instruments in stock, one especially good looking case in Maple. Winter & Company has long been known for its integrity in manufacture using the best of materials. One feature always seems to stand out especially in these instruments and that is their pinblock. A detail only piano tuners would notice and that is the good quality and firmness of the Winter & Company pinblocks. Winter & Company, a good name to keep in mind when shopping for pianos.

Court Will Decide

Hartford, Conn., July 26 (AP)—It was up to the Connecticut Supreme Court today to decide whether Republicans or Democrats shall dispense justice in the state's 66 municipal courts. Arguments in test cases to determine whether Republican incumbents shall remain on the bench or be displaced by Democratic Governor Chester Bowles' appointees were heard yesterday. The Supreme Court, specially reshuffled for the hearing, was given sharply conflicting pictures of the situation which led to two sets of judges battling for courtrooms throughout the state.

Poughkeepsie Priest Dies

Buffalo, N. Y., July 26 (AP)—The Rev. Charles E. Schmidt, S.J., of Poughkeepsie, died yesterday while visiting at St. Michael's rectory. He was 62. Father Schmidt was chaplain at Kings County Hospital from 1927 until 1947. For the past two years he was spiritual advisor at St. Andrew-on-the-Hudson in Poughkeepsie.

Industrial Production Hits Three-Year Low

Washington, July 26 (AP)—Industrial production, which has been declining steadily since setting a record last November, hit a three-year low in June. It may be still lower this month.

A Federal Reserve Board report which showed June production off 3 per cent from May and down 13 per cent from November left Secretary of the Treasury Snyder unmoved.

"Conditions continue good," Snyder said yesterday of the domestic front upon his return from a 23-day trip to 12 countries in Europe and the Middle East.

On the foreign news front, he reported European recovery progress has "in many respects exceeded earlier expectations," but now that Europe has increased production it "must concentrate on increasing dollar earnings"—that is, sales to the U. S.

While Snyder's comments on the domestic business situation all were on the optimistic side, many economists here expect industrial production to turn in its weakest performance of 1949 during July—traditional height of the vacation season—then rise again.

In June, production was 69 per cent above the prewar average, but it was 12 per cent below where it stood in June of last year.

The Reserve Board noted new stability in production of such non-durable goods as textiles, chemicals, and the paper, rubber, and oil products industries. Their output quit dropping in May and June, and has picked up in some cases.

Further sharp production declines were recorded in June for makers of all durable goods except automobiles and airplanes.

Co-Publisher Dies

New York, July 26 (AP)—Joseph L. Roesch, 45, attorney and a co-publisher of the Sullivan County Record, a weekly newspaper of Jeffersonville, N. Y., died Sunday. He had been mentioned as a possibility for appointment by President Truman to one of four newly created federal judgeships in the Southern District of New York. Roesch, a native of New York city, practiced law in Westchester, Orange, Rockland, Dutchess and Putnam counties. He was co-publisher with Orange County Democratic Leader T. J. V. Cullen of the Sullivan County Record and a former owner of another upstate weekly, the Independent Republican. He had a residence in New York city and at Stony Point, N. Y.

Man Rescues Three After Cruiser Explodes

New York, July 26 (AP)—An injured man dived into Oyster Bay and rescued three children; including his own two-year-old daughter, after his 26-foot cruiser blew up off Oak Neck Point near Bayville, Long Island, early last night, according to Third District Coast Guard headquarters.

A coast guard spokesman said six persons were on board the "Pride and Joy," owned by Benjamin Barrett, 30, of 41-13 159th street, Flushing, Queens, when the boat's engine blew up as Barrett attempted to start it.

Barrett's two-year-old daughter, Joy, was blown overboard by the blast, in which Barrett suffered lacerations of the right leg.

He dived after her and, after rescuing the child, passed her to Louis Nichols, of Water's Edge, Bayville, who had rushed to the blast scene in his motorboat.

The father then swam back to the ship, grabbed two life preservers and assisted his son, Bruce, 10, and John McNamara, 12, of 41-10 160th street, Flushing, who were treading water after they had jumped off the blazing boat.

Also injured in the blast, the coast guard reported, were Barrett's wife, Sallie, 36, who suffered first and second degree burns of the left leg, arms and face, and Andrew Ziezler, 11, of 41-20 160th street, Flushing.

The Ziezler boy suffered a fractured right femur bone and was taken to Parsons Hospital, Bayville, by the Bayville fire department ambulance which gave emergency treatment to those injured.

All six persons were brought to shore in Nichols' boat.

When the blast was reported, a coast guard PBY was sent to the scene from Floyd Bennett Field, and a lifeboat was also sent to aid.

The burned-out hulk of the cruiser was towed to shore.

Barrett said the group had been on a fishing trip when the accident occurred.

Parole Board to Consider Case of Arthur Barry

Buffalo, N. Y., July 26 (AP)—The State Parole Board will consider the case of Arthur Barry, one of the leaders of the July 29, 1929, Auburn prison riot.

Barry has been eligible for parole from Attica prison "for some time," State Supreme Court Justice Philip Halpern held yesterday.

Deputy Attorney General Emil L. Cohen, appearing for Warden Walter B. Martin of Attica, contended that the 58-year-old Barry was sentenced in Nassau county in 1929 as a second felony offender. Barry was sentenced to 25 years for first degree burglary.

In a memorandum, however, Justice Halpern said:

"It is undisputed that no formal charge of a prior felony conviction was ever placed against the petitioner."

Barry escaped from Auburn. Recaptured three years and two months later, he pleaded guilty to escape and was sentenced to an additional seven years. Subsequently he was transferred to Attica.

Bill Is Ridiculed

Moscow, July 26 (AP)—The Soviet press and radio gave wide play today to President Truman's military aid bill, branding as "nonsensical" the President's assertion that the Atlantic treaty and arms aid lie within the framework of the United Nations.

The popularity of bridge tournaments is increasing throughout the country, because they provide men and women of all ages an opportunity to compete in an intellectual pastime with players from different sections of the country. Don't think you have to be an expert to compete in a tournament. There are a lot of people who attend tournaments just to see Al Sobel, a national tournament director, conduct one of his quiz games after the tournament is over.

In my opinion Al is one of the greatest quiz masters in the country. He is known all over the country, and some day bridge players would like to see him in competition with some of the quiz masters on radio.

Al seldom gets a change to play except in an occasional rubber bridge game. When he is in a game, you can rest assured that everybody has a lot of fun, but with all his clowning, he usually wins.

Today's hand is one he played down in Virginia not long ago. I want you to notice his three club bid. He did not want to jump into three no trump. If he bid three hearts, it would not tell the true story of his hand. He made a jump shift bid, which is a game demand bid and a mild slam try.

The opening lead of the queen of clubs was won in dummy. At this point it did not look as if Al had much chance to make the hand. He played five rounds of hearts. Remembering Al's three club bid, East decided to hold his four clubs. One of his discards was that little deuce of diamonds, and that is all there was to the story. The queen-jack of diamonds from the West hand, and the ten-nine of diamonds from the East hand dropped on the ace and king, and the contract was made.

Beer Commercials Given

London, July 26 (AP)—The Moscow radio went in for beer commercials today. "My beer is Russian beer," the broadcaster said in effect, because Russian beer is better and stronger than American beer. An official of the Soviet brewery industry told the Moscow radio reporter all Russian beer is made from barley but American beer is brewed "from maize, sorghum and even potatoes."

Colonials Defeat Poughkeepsie Chiefs, 7-4, With Eighth-Inning Rally

Cauvel Winner In Relief Role At Stadium

It was give and take between the Colonials and Poughkeepsie Chiefs last night at municipal stadium but the Colonials had last take for a 7 to 4 victory that shattered a three-game losing streak.

A three-run rally in the bottom of the eighth decided the issue after the Chiefs had knotted the count at 4-4 in their half of the stanza.

Larry Cauvel, third of the Colonial flingers, was rewarded with his fifth victory of the season, after Tellif Tellefsen and Jim Gordon had proved generous to a fault with their free tickets to Chief batters.

Rally in Eighth

With one down, Elenchin launched the rally with a single to center and raced to third when Allen Thomaier sliced a double to the right field corner. Marip Perez scratched a hit of Joe Zack's glove at third, scoring Elenchin and Vic Hansen, a new shortstop, strolled fonding the sacks. Ell Peterlic, the losing pitcher, forced in Thomaier by walking Joe Spoza and Jose Abreu accounted for the third tally with a long fly to right.

Jim Gordon, Kingston's Negro hurler, figured in a couple of bizarre innings. Tellefsen, the starter, had a 4-1 lead when he suddenly went haywire in the seventh to cram the sacks with successive passes to "Digger" O'Dell, Pluchino and Battaglia. Gordon stopped the Chiefs cold, fanning Peterlic and getting Stampiglio and Morris on easy lofts.

Gordon Collapses

An inning later Gordon was trying to find home plate much in the manner of a blind pig fumbling for an acorn. Burke sliced a double to left and Fasiska was safe on McNamara's bobble. When Gordon walked Zack and O'Dell to force in a run, he got the hook and Cauvel got the call. Jake Charter rammed a perfect DP ball to shortstop Hansen who obligingly let it skid through his legs for the tying runs.

Kingston broke a 1-1 tie in the fifth when Spoza and Abreu rapped successive singles. Tellefsen squeezed Spoza across and was safe on Peterlic's bad throw to first. Zack then picked up Perlmutter's bunt and threw wild into right field permitting Abreau and Tellefsen to score.

COLONIAL CAPERS: A doubleheader in Bridgeport tonight...no rest for the weary. O'Dell hit the ball solidly the first two times up and later created quite a storm when he was called out on an attempted steal of third in the Poughkeepsie eighth. It was a close one. Maury McDermott Sr. and Fritz Jordon served as substitute umps. Kingston's new shortstop, Vic Hansen, is a tall, rangy Negro youth who has been playing with the Springfield Grays. He is a member of the Saratoga Indians in the New York State Basketball League. Tellefsen was going along superbly when his control deserted him. Colonials return home Thursday to face the Chiefs in a game sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Allen Thomaier had a whack at the cleanup spot and responded with a single and double.

• Bagatelles:

Leon Randall, Dick Davenport, Jerry Wells and John Gleason, the Wiltwyck worthies, will try where Kingston oldies never came close—at least not within our memory. We mean a national golf tournament. A motion is before the house that Wiltwyck Golf Club and the Chamber of Commerce join in a proper sendoff for these brilliant kid golfers when they take off for Washington, D. C. and Houston, Texas. Do we hear a second?

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

The New York City Sanitation Department's 12-0 victory over the Police in their annual baseball game merely proves that the Sanitation boys still dote on whitewashes. Meanwhile, will there be a police-sponsored game in Kingston this season? Eye-brow lifters on the local sports scene: Alvin Boice's thumping victory over Ed Reramert in the Twaalfskill championships and Edmund J. "Ed" Coughlin's complete abstinence from matters of baseball. Proximity, queen of American half-mile trotters—undefeated in 13 heats this year—is in such demand that her owners are rejecting offers for her appearance right and left. She licked the great Rodney two times running which isn't the first time a slick dame took over a male. Household appliance shortage is long over. A neighbor shook a rug from her porch a recent afternoon and before night two vacuum cleaner salesmen called.

• The Nineteenth Green:

George May of Chicago, the sugar daddy of American golfdom, will dangle prize bait of $66,200 for the lads and lassies o' the links in the annual Tam O'Shanter All-America tournament August 5-14. The golfer who breaks Lloyd Mangrum's course record of 63 wins $1,000. Mangrum accomplished his 63 with a 32 going out and an almost incredible 31 on the back nine. Par for the layout is 72. Donald Kimlin of Greenbush Park scored a hole-in-one at James Baird Park Wednesday on the 165 yard 17th hole. Ralph Gardiner, Roy Vogt, Joe Kwasney and Carl Husta tourned Baird last week. Kwasney, incidentally, is playing great golf and considered a hot rock special for the Wiltwyck championships. Isn't it about time for five or six men who are seriously interested in golf to sit down and map plans for an 18-hole course in Kingston or vicinity. Next to Mark Twain's weather, that is the most talked of, less-done about subject in the lexicon of sports.

THE SIMPLE LIFE: Up Dry Brook on the farm of Ney Todd is a cat which likes to live high. Puss has taken over an abandoned pigeon house and set up housekeeping. Old Man Stork was a recent visitor at the feline household, and, at last reports, the kittens had not ventured forth. I wonder whether the kittens will grow up to like living in a tree better than on the ground, and—how are they going to get down?

• The National Pastime:

Bucky Walters Quote: "The best all-round first baseman—hitting the long ball and fielding—in the league is Gil Hodges of the Dodgers. For a right-handed thrower, he starts a double play at second base like breaking sticks. He has the reflexes of Jackie Robinson, is what you might call a nasty ball player. He wants to beat you, doesn't hesitate to knock an infielder who happens to be in his way out into left field." Baseball men generally regard Red Schoendienst, only 26 now, as the most underrated ballplayer. Dixie Walker of the Pirates and Luke Appling of the White Sox are the only active players in the 2000-hit class. Yogi Berra, the colorful Yankee diction mauler, is the best bad ball hitter since Joe Medwick. Pitchers get so tired of Yogi pasting bad balls that they come right into his strength, says Tom Henrich. "Anything to get rid of him."

Never bet against the man who's always in condition—and on that score alone Gus Lesnevich has an excellent chance of beating Ezzard Charles on August 10. So it says here.

Sahler's Hasbrouck, Athletic Field Win; Dempsey Hurls 1-Hitter, Fans 13

Sahler's scored two victories, while the Athletic Field and Hasbrouck Park racked up triumphs in the Junior division of the K.A.A. baseball program.

Athletic Field got off to a fast start to edge Forsyth, 5 to 3, behind the four-hit pitching of Orr. Engle was the losing hurler, although he permitted only five safeties. Armstrong clouted a double.

The score:

	R	H	E
Forsyth Park	003 000 0	3	4
Athletic Field	301 001 x	5	3

Engle and Shershu; Orr and Hart.

Hasbrouck edged Block Park, 6 to 4, despite the fact that Short and Young permitted only two hits. Amato, the winning hurler, was touched for eight, but five Block Park miscues decided the contest.

Amato fanned five, Short 4 and Young 3.

The score:

	R	H	E
H'brouck Pk.	102 210 0	6	2
Block Park	000 030 1	4	5

Amato and Kosiowski; Short, Young and Kidd.

Dempsey pitched one-hit ball and struck out 13 batters as Sahler's No. 1 rolled over Cornell Park, 18 to 0. The winners scored in five of their six times at bat and wound up with an 8-run barrage in the sixth.

Brower had a double and Brown a triple to lead Sahler's 13-hit barrage on Banks.

The score:

Cornell Park	000 000 0	0	1
Sahler's No. 1	220 518 x	18	13

Sahler's No. 2 won on forfeit from Hasbrouck Park No. 1.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

By The Associated Press

By JOE REICHLER

Throw the first three months out of the window, boys—the National League pennant race is just beginning.

It took 14 weeks, but now that the wheat has been separated from the chaff, the same old bitter rivals—the Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals—are battling for the coveted prize. That's been the story in six of the last eight years.

At the moment, the edge lies with the Cards. Back home from a successful 12-game eastern jaunt, the Redbirds are in first place today, a half game in front of the slumping Dodgers. As far as the flag is concerned, the other six clubs can start rebuilding for next year.

The rampant Redbirds, who took over first place from Brooklyn by knocking off the Dodgers three straight in the Brooks' own back yard, begin a 19-game home stand today.

In the meantime, the Dodgers will play 17 games on the road, beginning with a trio in Chicago.

Tribe Edges Yankees

The American League race is showing signs of becoming a humdinger, too. It appeared practically over last week when the pace-setting New York Yankees knocked off their most persistent challengers—the Cleveland Indians—two out of three to increase their margin to five and a half games.

Things have changed since then, though. The Tribe went on to take its next five games, including the big one last night when they whipped the Yankees, 4-2, before 71,354 at the Yankee Stadium. That cut the Bronx Bombers' lead to only three games, with the two teams clashing again Wednesday and Thursday.

The Indians delivered a one-two punch last night. Not only did they defeat the Yankees, but they turned the tables on Vic Raschi, who had whipped them four straight times this year. The Yankee ace went the route for the 15th time, but was tagged for 11 hits and went down to his fourth defeat. He has won 15.

Righthander Early Wynn registered his eighth victory against two setbacks, but needed help from Satchel Paige in the eighth.

Dale Mitchell was instrumental in Cleveland's first two runs. Driving in the first with a long fly, and scoring the second on a fly by Mickey Vernon following his triple.

A pair of lapses by the Yankee battery accounted for Cleveland's last two runs.

Musial Still Hot

In the only National League game, the Dodgers, striving to save something from their disastrous series with the Redbirds, had to settle for a nine-inning tie as the Cards overcame a 3-1 deficit in the sixth. The game was called by agreement at the end of the ninth to permit both clubs to make train connections to the west.

Stan Musial's triple, the first of three hits against his Brooklyn cousins," scored Lou Klein to give the Cards a run in the first, but the Brooks came back with two in the third and another in the fourth for a 3-1 lead.

With two away in the sixth, Musial doubled, Enos Slaughter walked, and Ron Northey scored them both with a two-base hit. Rocky Nelson's two-bagger brought in Northey to put the Cards ahead, 4-3. The Dodgers tied the score at 4-4 in their half of the sixth on pinch hitter Gene Hermanski's home run.

No other games were scheduled in the majors.

Completing a triumphant sweep over several of the best players in the tournament, veteran Chet Fox polished off Neumont Culver in straight sets Sunday in the finals of the Kiwanis Club tennis championships at Forsyth Park.

Fox won 6-4 and 6-2.

Fox's technique baffled the younger opponent who raced all over the court trying to make his returns. Fox jumped into the lead quickly when Culver got off to a ragged start.

Fox broke through Culver's serve consistently when it appeared the Union College player might pull himself together for a rally.

In his advance to the crown, Fox defeated N. Jansen Fowler, Hoyt Clancy, Bruce Campbell and Dr. George Rifenbary.

Davis Cup Zone Finals to Italy

Paris, July [illegible]—Italy was able today to boast of its third European zone Davis Cup tennis title.

Most of the toasts were for [illegible] and here yesterday to win the deciding match and give his country a 3-2 triumph over France. Just as the experts had predicted before the final began, the three-day play was very close, with four of the five matches going to five sets.

Cucelli defeated France's ace, Marcel Bernard, 8-6, 3-6, 4-6, 6-0, 6-4. In the earlier singles encounter, France's Robert Abdesselam had evened the series by beating Marcello Del Bello, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

Italy will oppose the victor in the Australia-Mexico American zone final in the inter-zone final at Rye, N. Y., Aug. 12, 13 and 14. The winner of that series will then try to wrest the cup from the United States at Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 26, 27 and 28. Australia and Mexico clash at Wilmington, Del., next Friday.

Morgans Shade Chez Emile, 2 to 1, on Freak Play

Umpire Schwab Deflects Ball On Winning Run

The Morgan Restaurant boxscore doesn't show an assist for Umpire Bill Schwab in yesterday's 2 to 1 victory for the Morganites over Chez Emile in the battle for second place, but only because there is no provision in the form sheet for such an occurrence.

But the assist was there alright and it was directly responsible for a tie-breaking run that enabled Morgan's to shade Chezzies and move into a second-place tie with 8 wins and 3 losses each.

Barnes Has 1-Hitter

Artie Barnes, pitching a tremendous one-hitter, and southpaw Bill Swarthout were locked in a 1-1 sizzler when the freak play occurred to the chagrin and consternation of Chezzie rooters.

Here's the way it happened:

Stoll was plunked by a pitched ball, moved to second on Sonny Barnes' sacrifice and to third base on Artie Barnes' grounder to first. Swarthout then hit Brinkman with a pitched ball bringing Mike Rienzo to the plate.

Rienzo promptly slashed a ground ball between first and second but closer to the midway where the second baseman George Glaser set himself for what appeared to be a routine play. But, out of nowhere, loomed the large figure of Umpire Bill Schwab in the path of the ball which was deflected into center field as Stoll raced home with the winning marker. There was nothing Chez Emile could do about it, except squawk vociferously and claim that the umpire was out of position.

The controversial play climaxed a spectacular game in which Morgan's fielding matched the one-hit pitching by Artie Barnes, a double by Swarthoudt. Barnes fanned five and walked one. Swarthout scattered five hits.

Brilliant Fielding

Brinkling made a stubling catch of George Glaser's sinking liner in the first and Charlie Lay followed with a neat running catch of Joe Shattan's bid for a hit in the seventh. Tom Heneberry was racing all over the field for brilliant catches, first on Bush, then Joe Shattan and finally a dazzling one-handed catch on Bill Glaser at the left field barried. The ball was over the fence when Heneberry hauled it in.

Lowe's walk, a double by Swarthout and Mike Rienzo's low throw to first accounted for Chez Emile's lone marker in the third. Morgan's tied the score in the fourth when Bill Glaser let Rienzo's third strike go through him, Alan Vogt sacrificed and Charley Lay doubled to right center for the run scoring hit.

Force Is Streamlined

Tokyo, July 26 (AP)—U. S. Vice Adm. Russell S. Berkey said today the navy is streamlining its relatively small force in the Orient and altering the area in which it will operate. The admiral said the streamlining likely will mean some reduction in the number of vessels the navy now has in these waters. The planned operating area will cover roughly the area bordered by Guam, Australia, India and Japanese waters.

Catskill Linksmen Defeat Wiltwyck; Atkinsons Edge the Davenports

Led by the famous father-son combination of Dr Mahlon Atkinson Sr., and Mahlon Atkinson, Jr., the Catskill Country Club golfers defeated Wiltwyck Golf Club, 23½ to 13½ Sunday on the Wiltwyck links.

Mahlon Jr., a Hotchkiss Prep star, posted the best score of the day with rounds of 38-53-73. Maurice Davenport, Wiltwyck champion, shot 36-38-74. Dr. Atkinson posted 40-38-78, while Bill Newkirk shot 37-42-79.

The most interesting match of the day found the Atkinsons whipping the Davenports, Maurice and Dick, 2 to 1.

Win on Best Ball

The senior Davenport took his match from Dr. Atkinson, 5 and 3, while Mahlon Atkinson trounced Dick Davenport handily, 6 and 5. In the best-ball match, the Catskill duo put together rounds of 37-35-72 which was equalled by the Davenports' 34-38-72. In match play, however, the Wiltwyck tandem finished one-down.

In the blind-bogey sweepstakes stage in conjunction with the club match, Ray LeFevre, of Wiltwyck, shot a net 77, with a handicap of 8. Wiltwyck winners included Ike Trowbridge, Stan Winne, H. Henion, Dr. George Rifenbary, Charles Vogel, Clayton Smith, Henry York, Meyer Levy and Bill Newkirk. Catskill winners were Dr. M. H. Atkinson, Ken Brandow and F. DeCleco.

The match results:

Walt Thiel-W. Seeley, CCC, defeated Tom Danaher-Ernest Le Fevre, 3 to 0.

Dr. M. Atkinson-M. Atkinson Jr., CCC, d Maurice Davenport-Dick Davenport, 2 to 1.

J. W. Bailey-Bill Newkirk, W, d W. Kaufman-H. Hartley, CCC, 3 to 0.

Playing some of his most consistent golf of the season, Frank Stone won Saturday's match play against par, finishing one down. He spliced two rounds of 39 for a 78. Dick Davenport and "Dubby" Raichle tied for second with 80s.

In the 2-down bracket were Ad. Schultz, Dick Davenport, Henry York and Dr. George Rifenbary.

Royal Grill Wins Fourteenth Straight; Don Weeks Gains Eighth Pitching Victory

Subway Grill blanked Barclay Knitting, 6 to 0, behind Tommy Spada's one-hit pitching in the City Softball League yesterday. Cross was the losing hurler.

Royal Grill extended their winning streak to 14 straight by turning back the challenge of the highly keyed Schuler's Inn, 10 to 3, at Hasbrouck Park.

Joe Enright of the Royals paced the hitters by getting "3 for 3," while Carter banged three hits for Schuler's.

Don Weeks scattered seven hits to register his eighth straight pitching victory. The Royals collected 12 hits off three Schuler flingers and broke the game apart with a seven-run rally in the fourth.

The score:

	R	H	E
Schuler's	110 010 0—	3	7 1
Royal Grill	021 700 0—10	12	1

Scholar, Lowe, Harvey and McLaren; Don Weeks and Matheus.

Fuller's made a strong finish with five runs in the last two innings—three in the eighth—to edge Rose's Market, 8 to 6, in a free hitting, extra-inning battle.

Murphy, of Fuller's and Ed Thomas of Rose's clouted homers. Netter, Murphy and Glasser had two hits apiece for the winners, while Thomas had a single in addition to his homer. Rose's led 5-2 at the end of the fourth.

Mort Gazlay went the route and yielded seven hits, while Fuller's collected 11 off G. Hooker of Rose's. Mills rapped a triple, while Netter and Brown poled doubles.

The score:

Fuller's	000 210 23—8	11 5
A. D. Rose	212 000 01—6	7 0

Gazlay and Freer; G. Hooker and B. Rowland.

Montgomery Ward registered its first victory of the second half by whipping Jesse's Tavern, 9 to 5, with Basch and May pacing a 10-hit attack with home runs.

Doyle turned back Jesse's with six hits and was in command except for the fifth inning when the Taverns scored all their runs.

May, Bonomo, Basch and Nelson hit safely twice each for Wards. DeGroat and Bradley had two hits for the losers.

The score:

M. W.	420 102 0—9	10 0
Jesse's	000 050 0—5	6 0

Doyle and Boolukos; Dasher and DeGroat.

Ban Bobby Locke From PGA Golf

New York, July 26 (AP)—The purse strings of America's lucrative golf tournaments were closed today to Bobby Locke but the bush-browed South African may still get a crack at U. S. pros in the National Open.

The U. S. Golf Association, which runs the Open, said last night it had taken no move toward following the P.G.A. action in banning the cool money collector from across the Atlantic.

"This seems to be a matter strictly between Mr. Locke and the P.G.A.," a U.S.G.A. spokesman said. "We have not been asked to enter into it and until we are Mr. Locke naturally will be eligible for the Open."

The Open is the blue ribbon event of American golf, worth only $2,000 in immediate cash to the winner but of infinite value in prestige.

But the rest of the U. S. gold dust tournament trail, from which Locke picked up more than $50,000 the last three years, is blocked to the British Open Champion.

George Schaeiter, tournament manager of the Professional Golfers Association, announced the ban yesterday in St. Paul.

He said the reason was that Locke "has on numerous occasions violated the P.G.A. tournament regulations and the tournament players' agreement of the P.G.A. of America which he signed.

Locke's entry, he said, "will no longer be accepted in any P.G.A. sponsored event." That's all the big money ones except the Open.

The act that apparently blew off the lid was the South African's late withdrawal from the Inverness matches at Toledo last weekend.

Predict Uniform Football Rules

New Castle, N. H., July 26 (AP)—There should be no squawking about "sectional" rules on the nation's football fields this season.

The National Association of Collegiate Commissioners, with representatives of 162 colleges throughout the country, reached an agreement yesterday that every rule be interpreted the same from north to south and east to west.

From here in, regardless of the site of inter-sectional competition, all officiating will be on a neutral basis.

"Our chief objective was to assume that the new rewritten recodified 1949 N.C.A.A. rule book would mean the same thing, and be interpreted in the same way, of coaches, players and officials in all sections of the country," Asa S. Bushnell of New York told newsmen.

Bushnell, who as commissioner of the Eastern College Athletic Conference represents 59 colleges, is presiding over the collegiate commissioners' four-day conference here.

430,000 Degrees Granted

Washington, July 26 (AP)—The nation's colleges handed out a record number of degrees—430,000 of them—during the past school year. The office of education reported this today on the basis of returns from 1,000 of the 1,200 degree-granting institutions. The agency estimated that 375,000 bachelor's or first professional degrees were granted—a 38 per cent increase over the previous year—and 55,000 advanced degrees, a 20 per cent gain in master's degrees and 29 per cent in doctor's degrees.

Stranahan Bids For Canadian Title

Saint John N. B., July 26 (AP)—Defending Champion Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, today opens defense of his Canadian amateur golf title after drawing a bye in yesterday's first round.

Pitted against the champion today is Bob Davison of Amherst, N. S.

Stranahan's golf protege, Ollie Kay—also of Toledo—and Jim Mulcahey of Boston likewise drew first round byes.

The actual competing field of 129, with a scattering of American opposition to Stranahan, was reduced to 64 yesterday. The Canadian survivors were headed by Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver former junior champion, who all but made a wreck of Riverside's par 70 course in overcoming John Jabnoski of the home club 5 and 3

Cardinal's Charges Viewed Politically

Washington, July 26 (AP)—Democratic political leaders here are studying the possible effect on next November's New York Senatorial campaign of Francis Cardinal Spellman's charges that Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt is anti-Catholic.

Mrs. Roosevelt has denied any such bias. But even before she spoke out for herself in her syndicated column, former Governor Herbert Lehman, among others, had come to her defense.

Lehman is expected to be the Democratic nominee in November's special election to complete the term of Senator Robert A. Wagner, Democrat who resigned. John Foster Dulles, Republican, was named by Governor Thomas E. Dewey to serve until the election.

Lehman said last week he was "deeply shocked" by Cardinal Spellman's attack on Mrs. Roosevelt, which stemmed from her opposition to making federal funds available for non-public schools.

Lehman added that the question raised by the Cardinal's criticism of Mrs. Roosevelt is "whether Americans are entitled freely to express their views on public questions without being vilified or accused of religious bias."

This strong criticism of a high official of the Roman Catholic Church is regarded in some quarters as likely to have some effect on Lehman's prospective candidacy in a state where members of that faith are numerous.

Republicans have been discussing the possibility of nominating a Roman Catholic for the Senate, although Dulles, an active Protestant Church leader, has not closed the door on the possibility that he might seek the office in his own right.

Among the Catholics being mentioned in Republican circles here are Mary H. Donlon, director of the State Workmen's Compensation Board, and William J. Donovan, wartime head of the Office of Strategic Services and unsuccessful G.O.P. candidate for governor in New York in 1932.

If the Republicans should nominate a Catholic and Lehman heads the Democratic ticket, politicians here said they see the possibility that religious issues might be raised in the campaign.

Airline Pilot Gets Summons

New York, July 26 (AP)—Air police have handed the first summons to an airline pilot for flying too low over New York city.

The summons was given the pilot, Capt. George R. Newhouser of Winthrop, Mass., Sunday night after he landed a Northeast Airlines plane at La Guardia Field.

He was charged under a section of the administrative code based on Civil Aeronautics Administration regulations.

Summonses previously have been given private plane pilots under the regulations, but Newhouser was the first commercial airline pilot to be tagged. The city's air police recently intensified their check on planes after numerous complaints that airliners were flying too low.

The summons is returnable in Municipal Term Court at Jamaica Thursday. An airline spokesman said it was conducting its own investigation.

Explaining Immunization Program

Mrs. Reynolds Van Keuren, president of Kingston Public Health Nursing Committee, explains details of the immunization survey which will be conducted August 1 to 12 in the city. Workers met at the Kingston City Laboratory Monday night to receive final instructions. The survey will be made to determine how many pre-school children in the city have not been immunized against smallpox, diphtheria or whooping cough. (Freeman Photo)

30 Volunteers Are Present to Hear About Health Plan

Last evening 30 people who have volunteered to assist in the immunization survey of pre-school age children which will begin on August 1, attended the instructional meeting held at the city laboratory at 7:30 o'clock to receive instructions and acquaint themselves with the manner in which the survey is to be conducted. The meeting was for those from area 3.

Cards used in the survey were shown, a Walt Disney film in color showing how immunization protects from diphtheria, smallpox and whooping cough was shown and survey cards were given out.

Attendance at these area meetings is very necessary and important in order that the workers may fully understand the survey program.

This afternoon Area 1 is meeting, having changed its time from an evening meeting. Areas 12 and 13 will meet this afternoon at 2:15 o'clock and this evening Areas 2 and 6 will meet at the laboratory at 7:30 for instruction and survey assignments.

Hasbrouck Park Show Slated Tonight

Members of Hasbrouck Park will present a community night program tonight in the form of a county fair. Some of the acts will represent typical scenes while others will appear as features that the children would have if possible at every fair.

Those participating are Betty Hudcia, Jackie Effner, Bobby Corcoran, Lorraine Mackey, James Polacco, Elinor Gill, Jimmy Burns, Frances and Lillian Calaco, Mary and Ida Keller, Carolyn Seism and the Three Westerners.

The program is scheduled to start at 8:15. Immediately after the county fair the movie "Daniel Boone" will be shown by Andrew J. Murphy III, superintendent of city recreation.

Bomb Tests Reveal Ship Designs Okay

New York, July 26 (AP)—Admiral W. H. Blandy says the Bikini underwater atomic bomb tests "did not indicate that major revision of ship design was needed" to withstand such explosions.

The tests, he said last night, indicated that "minor improvements such as the strengthening of certain structures against blast and shock and general streamlining of vessels were the most realistic approach for protection from the atom bomb."

Blandy, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet and former commander of the atom bomb tests, spoke on an NBC television program marking the third anniversary of the Bikini tests.

Homemakers Invited to Exhibit Foods, Crafts, Clothing, Flowers, at Ulster Fair August 17

All homemakers in the county are invited to enter exhibits in the home department section of the Ulster County Fair which will be held at Forsyth Park Wednesday, August 17.

Exhibits will be arranged to offer many opportunities for showing particular skills in foods, including canned and baked goods; furniture and furnishings; clothing; crafts and hobbies including crocheted, woven, knitted and tatted articles, lampshades, metal work, stuffed toys, needlework, woodcarving, photography and flowers.

Mrs. William Powers, chairman of the department, is urging all women to share with others the results of their experience and show others their accomplishments.

Entry blanks may be obtained from the Home Bureau Office, 280 Wall street. These blanks and the necessary fees should be returned to the Home Bureau office before August 12.

Although the Ulster County Home Bureau for years has taken over the responsibility of running the department for the Ulster County Agricultural Society, Mrs. Powers points out that exhibitors do not have to be members of the Home Bureau. She especially emphasizes that all homemakers are invited to exhibit.

Judy Bezemer Wed To Daniel Robinson Sunday Afternoon

Miss Judy Dolores Bezemer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bezemer, 221 East Strand, became the bride of Daniel F. Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Robinson, Bronx, Sunday at 2 p. m. in the Immaculate Conception Church rectory. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Joseph Sleczek, pastor.

The bride was escorted by her brother, Harry Bezemer, Jr. She wore a white marquisette gown made with cap sleeves, hoop skirt; matching gloves; and a fingertip veil with queen's crown of seed pearls. She carried a prayer book mounted with gardenias and shower of streamers caught with baby's breath.

Miss Isabel Netherwood as maid or honor wore a lavender marquisette gown with matching gloves, and lavender picture hat. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow roses.

George Tsonlarides of The Bronx was best man.

A reception was held at the Tropical Inn, Port Ewen for 40 guests. Afterward the couple left for a wedding trip to Canada. She wore a light blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of white roses. They will live at 1337 Fteley avenue, The Bronx.

The bride is a graduate of School No. 4 and attended Kingston High School. Her husband attended schools in New York and is an auto mechanic by trade employed in New York.

Republicans Ask Date to Adjourn

Washington, July 26 (AP)—House Republicans demanded today an end to the uncertainty over the date for adjournment of Congress.

And if things aren't cleared up in a hurry, they hinted, they may fight any move to keep the Senate and House in session after July 31. That is the adjournment deadline fixed by the 1946 Congressional Reorganization Act.

Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts told reporters he would demand a showdown tomorrow by publicly asking the Democratic leadership what it intends to do.

Specifically, Martin said, he will ask Speaker Rayburn if it is the intention of the Democrats to follow the July 31 deadline set in the Reorganization Act. If they don't intend to follow it, Martin will want to know why, and how much longer the session will last.

Martin's question won't take Rayburn by surprise. For several week the House leaders have been debating whether the Reorganization Act's provision is binding this year because technically the nation still is at war.

The Reorganization Act says Congress shall adjourn not later then July 31 of each year except in time of war or national emergency, or unless Congress extends the session by affirmative action.

While Rayburn has not publicly disclosed his views, those close to him represent him as believing that no extension resolution is necessary since peace treaties ending the war have not been signed.

Mead Will Not Run

Hamilton, N. Y., July 26—Former Senator James M. Mead apparently has ruled himself out as a possible Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate next fall. He told inquiring newsmen at the Colgate University foreign relations conference yesterday: "Not being a candidate for any elective office, I shall have no statement to make concerning my political future until after the election in November." The veteran Buffalo politician had been reported interested in a return to the Senate, where he served for eight years until 1947, or in another shot at running for governor.

ArtillerymenMake Strong Impression As U. S. Defenders

New York National Guardsmen of the 156th Field Artillery marched in faultless fashion and were slicked to the King's taste for the review Monday night arranged in honor of Senator Arthur H. Wicks.

Commending Lt. Col. Frank W. Harkin, commanding officer the new Senate majority leader said "the nation has a strong right arm in the National Guard. It makes one feel more secure in these days of world turmoil to witness a demonstration such as your fine young soldiers staged."

Major Thomas J. Hanlon, superintendent of Napanoch Institution for Male Defective Delinquents, a special guest at the review concurred with the senator in his sentiments.

Others in the reviewing section with Senator Wicks and Major Hanlon were Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn and John J. Schwenk, former alderman-at-large, a World War 1 veteran and a colonel in the 56th Infantry, New York State Guard before it was disbanded.

Prior to the review, the artillerymen arranged their field packs and equipment on the spacious lawn in front of the armory for inspection. Senator Wicks and his party toured the area, looking over the men and materiel.

Neatness predominated as far as every soldier was concerned. There was no sparing the polish in preparing for the event which served as a preview for the 15 days of rigorous training that the Guardsmen will undergo at Pine Camp. The 156th is scheduled to leave for the upstate military reservation on Saturday.

After the inspection and review, the senator and other guests of Col. Harkin lingered at the armory to chat with officers and enlisted men, who were impressed with the comments of praise they received.

Those who took part in the review and who will go to Pine Camp for the summer training period are:

Kitchen Equipment Is Inspected

Senator Arthur H. Wicks takes peek into field range. At left, rear, is District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn. Two guardsmen show interest in the inspection as do Capt. Lloyd V. Wilklow, Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk and Major Thomas J. Hanlon. Wilklow is in charge of guards at Napanoch Institution for Male Defective Delinquents and Hanlon is superintendent.

Watching Two Swear In

Col. Frank W. Harkin and Senator Arthur H. Wicks are witnesses as Gerald J. Lovy and John P. Keating take oath making them members of the 156th Field Artillery Major William C. MacElveen officiates.

Power Dives to Death Near His Wife's Grave

Stockton, Calif., July 26 (AP)—An airplane pilot terrorized this city for an hour with repeated buzzing—then power dived to his death in the graveyard where his wife was buried four months ago.

He was Russell Gilman Higby, Jr., 23, son of a well to do produce merchant.

Sheriff Carlos Sousa said the young man was flying his father's Cessna monoplane. Witnesses said Higby's screeching dives over the city yesterday often leveled off at tree top height.

Sheriff's deputies waited at the airport to arrest him. With them were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Higby who told officers their son had been "very despondent" since his wife, Beverly, died April 1 in childbirth.

Higby made two power dives on a cemetery at the city limits. On the second, witnesses said, he started from 2,000 feet and never pulled out.

Higby's mangled body was thrown 80 feet from the point of impact. Debris was scattered over a 1,500 foot area.

Parts of the plane showered the mausoleum building.

Higby was an ambulance driver in England in World War 2. He leaves two daughters, 2 years and four months.

Anti-Poll Tax Bill Seen as Passing House

Washington, July 26 (AP)—Southern Democrats hoisted the flag of surrender today in the face of overwhelming House sentiment for anti-poll tax legislation.

They conceded that today's session would see passage of the legislation but said it will never pass the Senate which on four previous occasions has bottled it up.

The passage vote was set for mid-afternoon and northern Democrats and Republicans predicted that there wouldn't be more than 100 votes against the bill.

The legislation, backed by the 1948 conventions of both major political parties, would make it unlawful to require payment of a poll tax as a prerequisite for voting in primary or general elections for president, vice-president, or members of Congress.

Southerners have been fighting the bill on the ground it invades the exclusive rights of states to determine the qualifications of voters. They tossed in the sponge late yesterday after having fought a four-hour delaying action.
